MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION
No. 2/38.

Vacancy for
DEPUTY ELECTRICAL ENGINEER

The British Municipal Council, Tientsin, is prepared to receive applications from British Subjects for appointment to the position of DEPUTY ELECTRICAL ENGINEER.

Candidates must hold degrees in Electrical Engineering from recognized universities, or possess equivalent technical educational qualifications and have had several years' experience in Electricity Power Station work. They must be not less than 25 nor more than 35 years of age.

They must be conversant with the control, maintenance, and repair of modern Steam Turbines, Alternators, Water-tube boilers, etc. They should also be able to supervise the installation of Transformer Sub-stations and Transmission and Distribution systems, including overhead mains of 5000 volts tension. A knowledge of the construction, repair and test of domestic electrical appliances is also desirable.

The successful candidate will receive an initial salary of Chinese Dollars 1,050 ($700 basic pay plus $350 repartriation allowance) per month from the date upon which he takes up his duties in Tientsin. He will be upon probation for a period of six months from that date, and will be offered a four years contract at the end of his probationary period if his services prove satisfactory.

He will receive half salary only for the period spent in travelling to Tientsin and payment of this will be calculated from the date of his embarkation. The Council will pay for his passage (first class) to Tientsin and in case he is not offered a contract at the end of his period of probation, a return passage, of similar class, will be given him.

Applications containing references, credentials, copies of diplomas and "curriculum vitae" of each candidate should be addressed to "The Secretary and Engineer, British Municipal Council, Tientsin" and should be forwarded so as to reach him not later than Tuesday, March 29, 1938.

By Order,
H. F. BARNES,
Secretary and Engineer.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I, in my capacity as official Liquidator of the Comacrib Press, Federal Inc., U.S.A., of 118 Museum Road, Shanghai, hereby make public the fact that a friendly settlement has been reached with Mr. Tang Leang-li in connection with the money paid to him from the proceeds of the sale of certain machinery of the Comacrib Press under mortgage to the Finance Banking Corporation. Mr. Tang has withdrawn his contention regarding the interpretation of the mortgage deed based on the technical difference between American and Chinese law as to the validity of said mortgage deed. Further, Mr. Tang of his own free will and accord and without prejudice to his legal position that according to Chinese law he is not criminally liable, has paid to me, as official Liquidator, the moneys realized from the sale of the machinery in question.

In view of inadequate and misleading statements which have been circulated, I am in a position to state definitely that Mr. Tang Leang-li is the largest unsecured creditor of the Comacrib Press.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BRITISH GOODS

No Permission to Remove

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Since the outbreak of the local hostilities it has been impossible for British merchants to enter the China Merchants' Central and Lower Wharves to either inspect or remove their goods.

Lists of goods stored in these godowns were forwarded to the British Consulate and the Chambers of Commerce many months ago and as far as one can learn no progress has been made in obtaining permission to move cargo. Surely the time has come for the powers that be to take a strong line and demand that reputable British merchants be permitted to remove their goods without further delay. Many firms here are being slowly strangled by having to pay interest on drafts and other holding charges for goods they cannot get delivery of and from present appearances it looks as if the impasse will continue for months. Since Consular negotiation appears to be futile is it not possible to obtain speedy action by our naval and military leaders taking this important matter up with the Japanese naval and military authorities direct?

BRITISH MERCHANT.

Shanghai, Feb. 11.

BETTER ATMOSPHERE

Another Point of View

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Signor BARZINI, Jr., in his letter of yesterday is a little unkind in his belittlement of long standing Anglo-Italian friendship during certain critical periods of the last century. While French help at Solferino in 1859 might have, as he suggests, been of more immediately practical value, still a price seems to have been placed upon it in the form of the rectification in favour of France of the frontiers in the regions of Savoy and the Western end of the Italian Riviera, including Nice. Moreover your correspondent omits to mention the very valuable, if not vital, help given by British Troops to Italy at a critical time during the Great War.

Granted that Italy wants raw materials and cannot afford to buy them at unfavourable exchange rates; Is she actually any better off after an enormous capital expenditure on colonial expansion in Libya and Eritrea which produce very little and are unsuitable for European settlement? Will there be any adequate return from Abyssinia which must be kept under military occupation for years to come at great cost to the Mother Country?

Would not better results have been achieved at practically no cost by making use of the collective machinery provided by the League of Nations? Italy could have made out a very good case for herself, as Germany can to-day, for a fair share of the sunny spots of the world. It is natural in these days of commercial and economic competition for those already in possession to be reluctant to surrender privileged positions, but anything is better than the present state of affairs with the possibility of another and greater World War arising out of individual action, Round Table Conferences, though dull and unspectacular, and perhaps slow in producing results, are a better medium in the long run than wars and international incidents with their heavy toll in human life and happiness and the resultant material destruction which, if persisted in, will finally destroy civilization and human progress.

It should not be beyond the power of statesmen and international financiers to devise adequate readjustments so as to divide the sources of supply of raw materials and the markets for disposal of manufactured products equitably among the nations of the earth. Such a readjustment will necessarily entail certain sacrifices on the part of the more favourably situated Powers, but a purely selfish policy can only have disastrous results sooner or later and as nobody can win in a world war it would seem the part of wisdom for all reasonable measures to be adopted to render such a war not only unlikely but impossible.

Sacro Egoismo

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I will not enter the lists against Signor BARZINI on the subject of the length and quality of Anglo-Italian friendship. If he feels that England failed in the past to do enough to deserve Italy's friendship, all one can reply is that Italy has certainly done even less. Sacro egoismo is an untranslatable Italian phrase to describe Italy's behaviour in the comity of nations. But maybe all nations have a good deal to reproach themselves with on this score and so we can cease throwing mud at each other.

What is worth noting in Signor BARZINI's letter is that he states in paragraph three that all Mussolini wanted was to "enforce the 1886 treaty signed by Menelik" and in paragraph four that Italy "decided to get her own colony, her own flag and her own currecy in it." Now there was no mention of colonies or flags or currency in the Menelik treaty; according to Signor BARZINI the most the treaty did (and I do not agree that it did even that) was to grant "Italy a virtual protectorate over Ethiopia." I must, therefore, deplore this refractory Italy which decides on its own what to get against the express wishes of her master.

There is one more point. The British Empire does not, as Signor BARZINI states, wish to "lead the world." There is too much of this leading of animals to the slaughter already in the world. It is Italy that, I am told, wants to rule the world and alternates between defying and provoking everyone and then howling for justice as of right. I am no defender of the injustices of the past but I do not think that the call for justice from Italy is a very genuine one in the circumstances. It may be recalled that Mussolini himself told the famous journalist Pertinax early in 1935: "I would not accept Ethiopia to-day if you were to hand her to me on a silver platter; I will conquer her."

I wish Italy all the wealth and prosperity her people need so much but, personally, I think that she is not likely to get anything but bloodshed and hardship and poverty by playing the enfant terrible of Europe and Signor BARZINI's cry is one not of friendship but of desperation. I know that the reply from Italians will be both that Italy is prosperous and happy under the Fascists and that she is so poor and miserable that the rest of us are nothing but big brutes to refuse her our charity but these contradictions are worth nothing compared to the reply that if given by Italy and implemented by Italy and Great Britain would sweep the sky of all its thunder clouds, namely: "We are a proud and a fine people and we cannot beg and do not want to fight ....which we know can only result in death and impoverishment for us all. Give us freedom to trade and live on terms of absolute equality wherever you trade and live and we shall give you the same." Italy would gain more than she lost by this exchange and there is nothing between its fulfilment and herself but this same blind old sacro egoismo.

FLAT RACING

Extraordinary Statements

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—In the establishing of record time for any distance in a flat race there are two essential factors. The first is that the pony must carry not less than 'weight for inches' and the second that the time of the race must be faster than the previous course record.

As the pony Siboar, when winning his only nine furlong race, fulfilled neither of these conditions, he is definitely not the record holder. In view of the extraordinary information in your footnote to my letter yesterday ('Enquiry at the Shanghai Race Club elicits the information that Siboar won the nine furlong flat race in faster than record time at Kiangwan Race Course in 1936. The pony was, however, disqualified owing to the fact that it was less than the required weight for Z class ponies at the time when the race was run. It is true to say therefore that Siboar does hold the record for the nine furlong flat race). I can do no better than hand you the official 'Racing Record' from which you may verify that on February 18, 928, Apollo, carrying 157 lb., won a nine furlong race in two minutes fifteen and three fifths seconds. The pony carried two pounds overweight.

Siboar's time, over the same distance (1936 Racing Record) was nearly three seconds slower and he carried seventeen pounds underweight. I think I am right, therefore, in saying that Siboar holds no record.

Mr. Hayes Replies

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—May I put two questions? The first; will you be good enough to correct a misstatement contained in footnote to letter under the caption "Flat Racing" appearing in the "N.-C.D.N." on February 11, which sets down in detail a narrative to the effect that "The pony (Siboar) was, however, disqualified?" The second; since when and by whom has your contributor "THE SQUIRE" been appointed to the "duty" of censoring the wording of the paid-for advertisements appearing in the "N.C.D.N?"

Siboar won "The Fifth Crossbred Stakes" at Kiangwan on April 13, 1936; a race on the flat over nine furlongs, run under handicap conditions. In this event he broke the record and his time is unbeaten to-day.

Up to date I have never written a "letter" on the subject nd the term "disqualification" in connection with above-mentioned success is entirely news to me.

The advertisement I caused to be inserted in the "N.-C.D.N." recently was paid for to decide a point and its appearance entirely my own affair. Its contents are true statements which need not be repeated here either for the purpose of corroboration, or for that of correcting, intentional or unintentional, erroneous disseminations.

CRUELTY TO PIGS

The Policy of the S.S.P.C.A.

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I regret umbrage should have been taken at my letter of February 9, especially as I do not require to draw on my imagination to picture the overwhelming difficulties with which the S.S.P.C.A. is confronted. However, what I cannot understand, is why no publicity is being given to the disgusting state of affairs which prevails every time a consignment of hogs is landed on the Bund.

That the current Sino-Japanese hostilities have been the cause of bringing this form of cruelty so forcibly to the notice of the general public, does not mean that it is anything new, and, as it is a known fact that some local carriers do not consider it their responsibility to see that these animals entrusted to their care are fed or watered whilst in transit, isn't it high time the Society abandoned its policy of gentle endeavour, hoisted itself on to some convenient house top, and did a little lusty shouting?

CRITICISM

The Critic's Identity

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—X's letter in this morning's issue upon the subject of the Correspondence Column must, I feel, appeal to many of your readers.

I fully concur with all he says in regard to "Criticism of Amateurs."

In my opinion, editors of all local papers could do much to minimize unfair criticism and the stings resulting therefrom, if they ruled that no criticism (of amateur performances) be published except over the authentic name of the writer.

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I shall be much obliged if you or one of your readers will kindly settle an argument, and inform me as to the origin of the following passage from the English Burial Service:

"Man that is born of a woman hath but a short time to live, and is full of misery," etc., etc.

One of my friends tells me this passage is taken from the Scripture, but he is unable to quote the chapter and verse. I, therefore, will be glad to have the same, if my friend is right.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS" OF FEBRUARY 12, 1878.

From Newchwang:—Winter has now set in with its accustomed severity, and we have had the thermometer down to 2° Fahrenheit; but somehow we do not feel the cold so much as we expected—in fact it is only when a cutting wind sets in that one feels disinclined to turn out for a constitutional. Horses and carts daily cross the river on the ice, a very novel sight for a newcomer though familiar enough to old residents. Sometimes as many as even seven or eight animals may be seen attached to one car, irrespective of nationality. I noticed, for instance, a few days ago, a horse, mule, donkey and bullock—a large Mongolian sheep running by its side—all harnessed to the same car, and each assisting most harmoniously towards the general draw, these carts convey every conceivable thing, and leave in squadrons often proceeding through the barriers into Korea. Most of them fly a little flag, which indicates that the drivers have already paid a certain squeeze or blackmail, to the mounted robbers, and are thus exempt from being further mulcted by those lawless vagabonds. Robberies have been rife; the day before yesterday five fine young fellows were decapitated and before their bodies were cold they were stripped of their clothing by the beggars. Their heads ornament the East Gate, anything but a pleasant spectacle to passers-by, although a wholesome injunction to others to keep the eighth commandment. I am afraid, though, this is too common an occurrence to be heeded much by such ruffians, and is simply taken as a matter of course. Bustard shooting now occupies the minds of the sporting community. Some of the birds are very fine, weighing as much as 25 lb. We are looking forward to the arrival of the next courier. Our past papers from Shanghai bore the old date of November 27, with several gaps between that and former papers. We think it a great pity the Consul has taken over charge of the Chefoo courier and mails, as things were much better managed by the Customs. A lot of letters were waiting for us at Tientsin. These were sent back to Chefoo, and, for all we know to the contrary, may have been returned to Shanghai. Is not this pleasant for poor isolated mortals. The question arises "Who is to blame?"

Family treasures at Belvoir (pronounced Beevor) Castle, long the home of the late Violet Duchess of Rutland include a remarkable china bowl. On the inside of it are painted the portraits of the five children of the late Duke and Duchess of Rutland. Four still survive. The present duke and his sisters, the Marchioness of Anglesey, Lady Violet Benson, and Lady Diana Duff-Cooper.

THE SHANGHAI OPERA— "THE DEMON"

"THE DEMON"

Demon	G. Kudinoff
Tamara	S. Zorich
Angel	V. Eltzova
Prince Goudal	V. Chehov
Prince Sinodal	P. Markov
Servant	P. Selivanoff
Nurse	A. Lebedinskaya
Messenger	S. Vedensky

The Shanghai Opera has apparently done well to move to the Lyceum, judging from the packed house assembled on Thursday night to welcome the artistes in their new home. The opera chosen for the occasion was Anton Rubinstein's "The Demon" based on the poem by Lermontov, dealing with the well worn "Demon lover" theme with no little plagiarism upon Goethe's "Faust." As an attempt to create a Caucasian "Der Freischütz" Rubinstein's effort can hardly be termed an unqualified success. The Demon pops on and off the stage so frequently as to divest himself of any awesome attributes after the first half hour.

There are some excellent choruses, specially those for men only and women only, and where Rubinstein has been content to follow the Mussorgsky tradition of basing his themes upon the folk idiom the work is extremely pleasing: much of it is, however, sentimental and commonplace. It offers three of the principal characters fine opportunities of displaying their vocal abilities which is perhaps the reason why the opera has remained in the repertory of Russian companies. For this reason, as well as for the reason that every opera should be seen at least once. "The Demon" is well worth a visit.

The staging and scenery was the most elaborate that the Russian company has yet attempted, and judging from the rounds of applause which greeted the unveiling of each new scene it was not difficult to appreciate the fact that the 90 per cent. Russian audience was far more interested in the effect produced by smoke machines than in the music which the applause effectively drowned.

Mr. Kudinoff was in fine fettle as the Demon. His singing has improved enormously in the course of the last few months and I can say without hesitation that this has been his most successful appearance. The beauty of his rendering of the role did much to improve upon the essential poverty of much of his music.

Miss Zorich too was at her very best. The whole style of the work suited her and it is difficult to say which of her many exquisite costumes best became her. She too has improved out of recognition, specially in respect of intonation. Miss Eltzova sang artistically as the angel. Mr. Chehov and Mr. Selivanoff were good as Goudal and a servant respectively Mr. Markov was excellent as Sinodal and gave as usual the most finished and artistic performance of the evening. One regretted that his appearance was so brief. Miss Lebedinskaya was effective as the nurse and Mr. Vedensky pleasing as the Messenger.

The dresses were interesting and exotic: it was perhaps a pity that no more effective stretcher could have been found for the corpse of Sinodal than a camp bed of the type used by the S.V.C. which consorted ill with the almost Persian décor of Goudal's palaces. The choruses showed signs of lack of rehearsal, and the men were as usual noticeably better than the women. The ballet also seemed to have been under-rehearsed and in any case was somewhat tedious. The orchestra on the other hand gave about its best performance of the season. The voice of the prompter was too much in evidence, and he was frequently visible from the seats to which some at least of the members of the press were relegated.—F.A.

APPROACH TO THE BREAKFAST TABLE

Some Worthy Candidates for Our Morning Suffrage

The approach to the breakfast table is a British one—or shall we say British-American, for the cult of the breakfast sailed across the Atlantic ocean in the good ship Mayflower. It is hearty—with a glad smile and a rubbing of the hands. There is no question here as to what we shall eat—the foundations of a good breakfast are immutable. Tea, coffee, eggs, bacon, butter...all must be there, and afterwards the trimming according to taste. The question which requires deep thought and decision is rather "Which shall we eat...?" Some very excellent claims in this grave matter are set forth herewith.

Coffee Without Tears

They say that away back in the mists of time, coffee was discovered by a flock of Abyssinian sheep who, accidentally grazing on wild shrubs, ate coffee berries and became elated and sleepless at night! If this was the effect of coffee on Abyssinian sheep, what wonder the high-strung humans of to-day so often find themselves unable to support the effects of the caffeine in untreated coffee?

And yet to be forbidden, coffee is a fearful deprivation. With what agony does the nose greet the glorious aroma which ascends from the preparation of the morning meal. The pain need be of the shortest duration, however—just the time wanted to send to the compradore for a tin of H. A. G. Coffee. This coffee is not synthetic. It is the real unadulterated coffee with its caffeine extracted by an ingenious process and can actually be obtained in the berry.

Relieved of its caffeine, H. A. G. Coffee automatically becomes a drink suitable for children. Which of us is without experience of the child who "doesn't like milk" and is tired of cocoa and isn't allowed to have tea? Sometimes the poor little wretch in despair takes refuge in a glass of cold water with its meals! How such a child would welcome a fragran breakfast cup of cafe au lait made with H. A. G. Coffee. Try it and see! And for the very usual sort of person who can't take coffee at night without being kept awake, H. A. G. Coffee is something to be greeted with acclaim, while for expectant and nursing mothers—those people to whom pure food is so very vital—it is an absolutely safe and harmless beverage.

Carnation Evaporated Milk

The claims of Carnation Evaporated Milk are very telling—and a generous pitcher of it on the breakfast table is peculiarly well placed. Really it is cream—at a third of the price of the fresh. Try it with a bowl of piping hot porridge, and top it up with plenty of Demerara sugar—it will be a bowl fit for a god's breakfast, and alone and unaided it will keep you going until lunch-time. Another morning try finnan haddock oven-poached in Carnation Milk flavoured with fresh-ground pepper corns. If you like cream with your porridge, Carnation will give you this too. And you will rise from this wholesome beginning of the day fortified for its battles which—if you are a woman—will include one with the cook. How often in these hard days has the careful housewife turned sadly from some delicious recipe which called for a goodly quantity of cream. But just a little thought would suggest to her that her good friend Carnation was just the very thing that was wanted, sitting there in its neat, modesly priced red and white tin, waiting to provide her with all the cream soups, puddings and ice creams that she has been longing for.

The Carnation Company maintains two of the largest herds of Holsteins in the world and they introduce this magnificent strain into the many herds of 'Contented Cows" from which the milk for the Carnation Condenseries is obtained. Milk is 87 per cent water as it comes from the cow. Sixty per cent of this water is evaporated from Carnation Milk and it is then homogenized—that is, the cream globules are broken up into minute particles and distributed evenly through the milk. It is this which gives Carnation Milk its velvety texture and makes it such a delight to all good cooks. Nothing is added to Carnation Milk—and nothing is taken from the original fresh milk except sixty per cent. of its water. If you dilute Carnation Milk with water to half its strength you will still have an over-the-average full bodied milk.

Ovomaltine the Tonic Food

This is the time of year in which to build up the system. Breakfasts are hearty these days, food is absorbed and made the most of. It is unfortunately true that a good many of the native-produced foods in China have not the nourishment value of the same foods in Europe and America. And as making up for this lack by increasing the volume of what we eat is neither comfortable nor healthy, some other way of making up food deficiencies is indicated. Ovomaltine is a very delicious solution of the question of how to do it. Ovomaltine is rich in mineral salts, lecithine and vitamines—the very things which are lacking in our native suplies. Berne is its place of origin and into it goes milk, new-laid eggs and barley malt rich with the wonderful air and mountain pastures of Switzerland. In order not to destroy their valuable vitamines, these are prepared in special huge vacuum boilers under an extremely low temperature. A cup of Ovomaltine, made with milk, tea or coffee as preferred, will bring your food at once up to the standard of an energizing Home breakfast. Its immense value for children and young people, and, in fact, for all who work their brains and bodies hard, can at once be realized.

There are also those who are not hearty, to whom the smell of coffee,

"Amah, give the Children more OVOMALTINE. they love it so much."

Ovomaltine is the ideal breakfast beverage. It is made of first class barley malt, fresh eggs and creamy milk.—

eggs and bacon of a morning is very far from attractive. To them also Ovomaltine makes a polite bow of greeting. It is easy to take, appetizing and sustaining. A cup of milk is a cup of milk, and tea, coffee and cocoa are also just their own excellent selves—but add Ovomaltine and they all at once become a meal complete with everything necessary to keep the body going.

Milk is the Perfect Food

Once upon a time the British Farmers' Association used in their publications a quotation from Household Words. It began," If civilized people were ever to lapse into the worship of animals, the cow would certainly be their chief goddess. What a fountain of blessings is the cow....!" Now that the value of milk as a food is more widely recognized than ever before, this old quotation has still more truth in it. One may see a most worshipworthy herd at the Lucerne Dairy Farm.

A cup of milk at breakfast time is one of the most wonderful of drinks. But it must be rich and good—especially if it is to appeal to children. The richest milk in the world comes from Jersey cows. The Lucerne Dairy Farm's is a Jersey herd, recently imported from New Zealand, that perfect dairy country. The quality of milk depends entirely on its butter fat content, and for this these Channel Island cows are acknowledged champions—it is the reason for the smooth creaminess of their milk.

Add to the perfect cows the fact that sanitary conditions at Lucerne Dairy Farm are as faultness as science and care can make them. The owner is a foreigner, it is foreign-managed, and in addition the pasteurization of the m[illegible]t is entirely handled by foreig[illegible]. In calm and confidence, there[illegible], you may enjoy your milk.

Welcome! Victoria Butchery

Eggs for the breakfast table! Housewives best of all know what a problem eggs have been during the last few months of stress. They were always increasing in price, often they were doubtfully fresh, sometimes it appeared to be only by favour—at least so one gathered from the cook—that they could be bought at all. We may count it to the credit side of things that the egg problem has been solved by the emergence of Cepco eggs—the China Egg Produce Co.'s excellent merchandise. They were always in Shanghai—but the average person's idea was that they could only be bought in thousands, not by the humble dozen. It required some courage to ring up such a big affair as the China Egg Produce Co. over the matter of the family's boiled eggs for breakfast, though I pay a grateful tribute to the reassuringly polite and interested manner in which one's wants were noted and promptly supplied. Now, however, all we have to do is to ring up or call upon the Victoria Butchery which has just opened at the corner of Bubbling Well and Seymour Roads, and we shall receive our baskets of clean brown eggs each stamped with Cepco's hall mark.

And to keep them company are bacons, cold meats, poultry, vegetables—all in most delectable selections. The Victoria Butchery is a most excellent addition to Shanghai's amenities, right on the bus routes—you step off one bus, make your purchases and step out on the pavement again ready for the next one. Or if you are living in its neighbourhood you can just walk along and get acquainted with their most attractive premises.

Butter for Your Bread

Australia is often termed the Empire's Dairy and this is more than apt, when one considers the immense quantities of dairy products which are annually exported from this rich continent to all quarters of the globe. One of the principal items is fresh butter, the quality of which leads in the world's producing countries, not to mention the huge annual output. Its fair pastures and temperate climate have formed an ideal combination for the successful rearing of cattle and with the great advance in manufacture and modern factory methods have all tended to produce the world's best in butter.

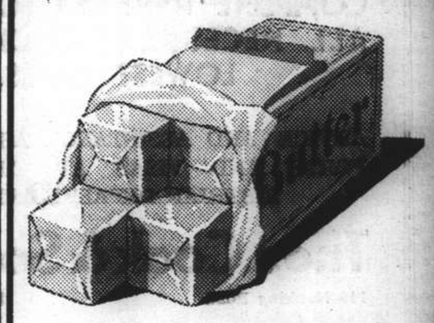
There is nothing to compare with a pound of sweet and fresh butter for your table. The Geddes Trading & Dairy Farm Co. Ltd. have made it a speciality in the purveying of this essential commodity to Shanghai consumers, and they were the pioneers in importing fresh butter to Shanghai nearly 30 years ago. Their brands, i.e.,. "Daisy," "Meadow" and "Lotus"—all choicest Australian—have now become household words and have earned for themselves an enviable record for quality.

The Cup That Cheers. . . .

Lipton's teas are big guns in the battle for your breakfast-table cup. By maintaining a standard of excellence in the blend and never reducing quality to meet a price the name Lipton is now synonymous with high grade teas. And what a selection they have to offer! Using the same tea all the time is like having the same food at every meal. Mr. D. Cameron-Swan, a director of the Liverpool Chinese and Indian Tea Co., at a recent "tea-tasting" gave the following suggestions: "A heavy Indian tea is suitable for early morning tea and breakfast; a fine Darjeeling for the afternoon; and one of the various China types for evening."

And how comprehensively Lipton's teas provide for us to follow this savant's advice. In their lines of quality teas are these seductive names: Yellow Orange Pekoe, Green Japan, English Breakfast (hearty and strong, this!), Imperial Gunpowder, Green Gunpowder, Formosa Oolong.

One spoon for everybody and one for the warmed pot, freshly-drawn boiling water, five minutes to infuse, and pour! A drink fit for a king or a queen.



Insist on getting any of the following brands for your table:

Daisy Brand

Meadow Brand

or

Lotus Brand

Our butter is made from wholesome, fresh imported cream, straight from healthy cows. Every ounce of it is nourishing.

This butter is obtainable at all leading compradore stores in town.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

MORE BOMBING

The latest attack on an evening contemporary by the local terrorists fortunately resulted in no loss of life, and not too great an amount of material damage, while the fact that two men have been arrested, one of whom at least is reported to have admitted that he threw the bomb, should bring the solution of the problem presented somewhat nearer than it has been since these outrages commenced. Bombings of other offices and the murder and decapitation of two Chinese have been accompanied by the suggestion that these crimes have been committed because of the anti-Japanese activities of the victims. That is an attempt to place the responsibility for what is happening upon the Japanese and does not have about it even the quality of ingenuity. It is not believed for one moment that the Japanese would ever descend to such low levels as to seek revenge for criticism by any such means, and at any rate until there is full evidence on the subject any such theory should be rejected. When Shanghai fell it become known that a number of Chinese had been left behind for the purpose of harassing the Japanese. It has since been stated that these irregulars had been withdrawn from Shanghai, and the quietness which prevailed for a time suggested that this might indeed be the case. The hopes which were thus inspired have been rudely dashed during the past few days and there is available now all the evidence to show that a terrorist gang is carrying on its nefarious work regardless of who may or may not be damaged. Anonymous letters have been received by some members of the staffs of the newspapers involved and the general idea to be formed of what has been happening is that some persons or other hope by the inculcation of terror to bring about changes in the policies of the newspapers concerned, or to wreak vengeance for opinions which have already been expressed. No journalist unconcernedly offers himself for martyrdom, but it can be said of the foreign members of the profession that they are not likely to be deterred from what they believe to be their proper functions by any such behaviour as that of which the local terrorists have recently been found guilty.

So long as the men succeeded in throwing their bombs and effecting their escapes, it was obviously difficult for the police authorities to trace the offenders or the organization behind them. With the apprehension of two prisoners yesterday, that difficulty may to some extent be removed, though it is still possible that the two many refuse to talk. That should not place an insuperable obstacle in the way of police enquiries, for, once the identity of the men is established, it should not be exceptionally difficult to trace their acquaintances and the circles within which they have been moving. In any event the police have now something to work on, which up to yesterday morning was completely missing. Whatever may be the opinion of some people, it is quite clear that no blame whatsoever attaches to the police forces of the French Concession and the International Settlement for these occurrences. They cannot be expected to forestall crime of this nature, though it is apparent that offices likely to be subjected to this form of demonstration will for the future need some special protection, if not to prevent the throwing of bombs, at least to make as sure as possible that the perpetrators of these outrages shall have little chance of making good their escape. There is every confidence that the respective police forces will eventually run these terrorists to ground. In the past they have been faced with considerable difficulty in dealing with armed gangs, but patience and thoroughly efficient work has ultimately led to their being rounded up and sent to the punishment which they so richly deserved. What the police have done in the past, and done so well, they may be confidently expected to perform in the future and it may be reasonably expected that they will in the end prove just as successful in dealing with the bomb-thrower as they have been with the armed robber. It is, perhaps, unfortunate that to the onerous tasks already thrown upon the police forces by the existence of the present state of hostilities the extra work of dealing with these terrorists should be added, but they should realize that the foreign communities have every confidence in their ability to deal with all phases of the present emergency.

The offer of $3,000 reward by the French authorities for information leading to the arrests of these terrorists should bring in some information. There is also the $5,000 offered by the Municipal Council. The greater the reward the more inducement for informers to run the risks, which they are invited to do, in order to gain it. If these outrages are being committed under the inspiration of the Chinese authorities, and it was originally suggested that this was indeed the case, they should be persuaded in their own interests to put an end to them. The surest way of alienating the deep sympathy which is felt for China, is by a continuance of these practices which are abhorrent to all right-thinking men. Not only that, it constitutes a direct breach of the neutrality of the two foreign areas in which so many Chinese have sought refuge from the tragedies which have been witnessed throughout the countryside. Those may be matters of pure expediency, but on the question of principle these bomb outrages are as futile as they are deplorable. As has already been pointed out the courage of people who have to express daily opinion is not likely to be daunted by the wretched fellow who seeks to throw a bomb and make good his escape before anything happens to him. Bombing of this sort is the most vicious type of crime that can be imagined. The culprit runs little risk himself, and may do considerable harm to perfectly innocent individuals, and it must be emphasized that most of the persons working for a newspaper have nothing whatever to do with its policy, but are merely human cogs in the machine which produces it. It is to be hoped that those found guilty of these crimes will receive the most condign punishment. There is not a single good thing which can be said for the dastardly perpetrators of these outrages, and Shanghai expects that the Courts, before whom these men may ultimately be brought, will vindicate the law and justice which it is sought to administer in this city of Shanghai.

SHORT-LIVED

The collapse of the Goga Cabinet in Rumania though it has come as a surprise, was not entirely to be unforeseen. M. Goga headed a comparatively small anti-Semitic minority, and it seems that the immediate need of Rumania is for the establishment of a coalition government through which the will of the democracy shall prevail. A number of reasons have been given for M. Goga's failure to carry on, ranging from the Soviet protest over the dissapearance of M. Theodore Butenko, the Russian Chargé d'Affaires, to the refusal of Rumanian financiers to co-operate with his government. King Carol has appealed to the Patriarch of the National Orthodox Church to form a Cabinet, and the latter has invited no fewer, than seven former Prime Ministers to assist him in his task. That they have consented to do so means that leaders of many shades of political opinion will take part in the deliberations of the Cabinet, and that it will represent a very wide section of Rumanian political thought, and should bring a majority of the electorate to its support. In effect the contemplated totalitarian system of government has failed to carry on, and this latest development is to be welcomed as a success for democracy of which the Goga Cabinet and its policies were the direct negation. Another gratifying result of this latest development is that the Jews have, at any rate for the time being, a respite from the anti-Semitic activities which marked M. Goga's entry into power. It is not believed that the new Cabinet will continue to adopt this portion of the Goga policy, and that the unhappy Jews, whose existence in Rumania was threatened, will be able to remain in that country and continue to receive the same protection which they had enjoyed up to December last. Nevertheless they will always remain in a state of anxiety for the possibility that another minority government might come into existence must always give them cause for worry, and if large numbers of them decided to emigrate whenever possible, it will not be surprising.

VISIT DEFERRED

It is to be regretted that the King has had to defer his long-anticipated visit to India, but considering all the circumstances it is in all probability a very wise decision. The royal visit and the holding of a Coronation Durbar would have been most popular with the inhabitants of India and would have afforded them an opportunity for the same display of loyalty which marked the visit of King George V and Queen Mary following their Coronation. But His Majesty feels that in these times when the expense of the inauguration of provincial autonomy is falling upon the Indian budget it would be unwise to add to that the expense naturally to be associated with so important a function as a royal Durbar. There was also the danger that world developments might have necessitated a change of programme at a later date when arrangements had progressed in the hope of the visit taking place. If that did indeed occur there would be every likelihood that much loss and inconvenience would result, and taking all things into consideration, if such a decision had to be made, and general conditions, as well as the specific reason appear to justify it, it is better that it should be announced as early as possible, instead of at a time when consequences of a further postponement might be all the more costly. His Majesty has, however, reiterated his intention to visit India as soon as circumstances permit. That will relieve some of the disappointment which must naturally be felt over this second deferment of original plans, and loyal Indian subjects will anxiously await the time when an improvement in general world trends will make it possible for Their Majesties to make the visit which should bring the people of India in closer touch with the British Raj. Visits of royalty to India have invariably proved successful in the past and the proof of royal interest in India which they have demonstrated will be ample justification for a similar visit if and when circumstances permit.

DYNAMIC SPEED

There was a time when a journey from London to Edinburgh was a real and lengthy adventure. It linked principal points between one country and another in a tiny little island measuring diagonally from Land's End to John O'Groats 700 miles or so in a method regulated by coaching speed and afterwards railway speed. Expresses were introduced, travelling time was reduced, stream-lined trains were created to kill the boredom of travel—although other countries have much longer hauls—but it still seemed a tremendous journey. On Thursday, Squadron-Leader J. W. Gillan, of the Royal Air Force, proved it was not so long and tedious. Using one of the new Hawker-Hurricane pursuit planes, of the ordinary standard service type now added to the R.A.F., he left Edinburgh just after dusk and stepped out of his plane in London 48 minutes later, establishing a new speed record for land planes of 409 miles an hour, greatly exceeding any performance of a land machine previously established. He covered a distance of 352 miles in a service plane at the rate of about seven miles a minute, flying "blind" most of the time because dusk had fallen and the speed flier of to-day must depend primarily on his instruments, not on his sense and intuition. As a flying feat it ranks as one of the greatest in the world, but it also indicates the great strides made in the re-equipment of the Royal Air Force to bring this unit into line with existing conditions. Re-armament has been forced on the world whether the leading nations desire it or not, and it is highly satisfactory to find that Britain, once fifth in the scale of air powers, has been able so successfully to remedy deficiencies.

FOREIGN NEWSPAPER INCLUDED IN TERRORISTS' LIST

"Shanghai Evening Post" Editorial Office Bombed: Two Culprits Chased and Arrested

TWO MORE SEVERED HEADS DISCOVERED

TWO more terrorist outrages yesterday morning completed a series of such incidents which gave Shanghai one of the most hectic 24 hours for many a day. Following closely on the bombing of two foreign-registered Chinese newspapers on Thursday night, the offices of the "Shanghai Evening Post" were attacked for the second time within a week early yesterday morning. Evidence of a further terrorist outrage was the discovery of a severed head early yesterday morning beneath a concrete pole outside 154 Route Dufour, to which was attached a warning against anti-Japanese activities. This was the second severed head to be found in the Concession within six hours, the first having been discovered in Route Grouchy by French policemen on patrol shortly before midnight on Thursday.

The attack on the offices of the "Shanghai Evening Post" was carried out by two Chinese terrorists who came into the Concession from the Settlement by bicycle, and hurled a potato-masher type of hand-grenade at the main entrance of the "Evening Post" offices. The grenade exploded with great force on the pavement outside the main entrance, scattering fragments over a wide area, and alarming many Chinese and foreigners in the vicinity. The only damage done to the "Evening Post" building was the breakage of a single pane of glass in the entrance door, and luckily no casualties were caused among those who were walking along Avenue Edward VII at the time of the attack or among those inside the "Evening Post" building.

Exciting Chase

The two terrorists, both using the same bicycle, quickly mounted, and made off down Szechuen Road. Two French policemen, one a detective and one a constable, who were on duty near by, immediately started off in pursuit, and an exciting chase followed, with police whistles being blown, and Chinese stopping still in the street to watch the two policemen dashing after the terrorists, one of whom was pedalling as fast as he could in an attempt to escape.

S.M.P. Assist

There was a swift end to the drama when three Settlement C.P.C.'s on duty at the corner of Kiangse and Canton Roads quickly took in the situation at a glance, drew their pistols, and pointed them at the two fugitives who were coming in their direction. One of the constables fired a shot at the terrorists, which missed, and lodged harmlessly in the pavement. Hemmed in from both sides, the terrorists had no chance to escape, and the Settlement policemen quickly effected their arrest. The men were immediately handed over to the French policemen, and handcuffs were applied without any delay.

The French police have already discovered the history of the two terrorists, and expect to find out a great deal about terrorist activities in the Settlement and Concession by questioning the two who perpetrated yesterday morning's attack. They suspect that this morning's attack had the same purpose as that carried out upon the "Evening Post" offices at approximately the same time last Saturday morning, that is, it was in the nature of a demonstration. The police are convinced that the attack cannot have been intended to harm anyone in the building, as the grenade was thrown short of the main entrance. In any case, few people would have been in the building at the time.

Concession Combed

The French Police have not been able to identify the head discovered in Route Dufour yesterday morning, the third within a few days. Only one of the three heads has been identified so far, and that is the head of Mr. Tsai Tio-tu, editor of the "Social Evening News," discovered in the Concession on Monday. They are convinced that the three murders did not take place in the Concession, as detectives of the French Police have systematically combed the Concession for clues of such murders and have found none. They believe that the three men were murdered outside the Concession, and their heads then brought in and deposited in French territory.

Questioning of the two suspects revealed nothing of importance yesterday, the "North-China Daily News" was informed last night, but developments are expected to-day.

The French Police have arrested about 6,000 suspicious characters in the Concession since the beginning of this year. They have also seized 182 pistols and a large quantity of ammunition in connection with these arrests or in the course of searches made of houses frequented by the criminal element.

Ninety Suspects Held

A writ of detention for ninety suspects rounded up by detectives of the Crime Branch Headquarters of the Settlement Police Headquarters was issued by the First Special District Court yesterday morning. Instead of escorting the suspects to court, the prosecution sent a list of names.

The earliest arrests of the suspects were made at a refugee camp at 312 Yunnan Road. Here eleven men, Chu Hsi-wen, Hsiao Fang-tai and nine others, were detained. Six cigarette-tin grenades, a seal and some documents were also seized.

In a subsequent raid on a lodging house, 11, Lane 614, Foochow Road, 75 suspects were arrested. Later four additional suspects were rounded up by the police.

Still Another Head Is Picked Up

Again last night terrorists struck in the French Concession, and another head severed from the body was found, this time in Rue Chapsal, 100 yards north of the French School and across the street, at 10.30 o'clock. As usual a note was near the head, this time, however, with merely the cryptic sentence in Chinese: "Be careful, this is a warning."

The identity of this murdered man, as well as of the two in the 24 hours preceding, was still unknown up to the time of going to press.

Japanese Mass Forces on the Tsinpu Fronts

Little Activity Except for Reinforcement

FIGHTING REPORTED IN SOUTH HOPEI

Hankow, Feb. 11.

With the Japanese reorganizing their forces on both the northern and southern fronts before delivering a final attack on Hsuchowfu, there is little activity in the Tientsin-Pukow Railway sector at present.

While the Japanese forces in the southern section of the railway are rushing preparations to advance westward from Hwaiyuan, their base, towards Hofei, Japanese engineers have completed repairs to the Yellow River Bridge north of Tsinan in order to bring down fresh reinforcements from Tientsin for a drive southward towards Hsuchowfu.

Meanwhile, some fighting is at present going on in southern Hopei, in the vicinity of Tsingfeng, which the Chinese claim to have recaptured. Chinese troops are now stated to be pressing on towards Nanlo, about midway between Taming, where the Japanese drive in south Hopei started, and Tsingfeng.

Chinese circles here believe that Japanese troop movements on the Peiping-Hankow Railway are not designed for an advance southward towards Chengchow, but intended as a precaution against a possible Chinese offensive from Shansi and Honan.

The number of Japanese forces along the Peiping-Hankow Railway, they point out, have hitherto not been very large.—Reuter.

Wuchang Bombed For First Time

Hankow, Feb. 11.

Wuchang, a former capital of China and situated across the Yangtze from Hankow, had its first taste of Japanese bombing this afternoon, when an unknown number of 'planes visited the thickly populated ancient Chinese city and dropped a number of bombs on what appeared to be the waterfront district and behind the city.

The visitors came in two relays. The first group drew no anti-aircraft fire because of thick low-lying clouds, which obscured the raiders. The second group arrived ten minutes later. The clouds had apparently lifted somewhat by then, for occasional bursts of anti-aircraft fire were heard, but no 'planes could be seen from Hankow.—Reuter.

ITALY SEEKING WAY OUT OF DEADLOCK

Count Grandi Again Visits Mr. Anthony Eden

London, Feb. 10.

Count Dino Grandi, Italian Ambassador to Great Britain, paid another visit to the Foreign Office to-day and saw Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary.

The visit lasted an hour and, it is understood, the work of the Non-Intervention Committee was the principal topic of conversation.

The British Government keenly desires a solution of the present deadlock over the withdrawal of volunteers from Spain. It is believed that the Italians understand this desire and it is thought that some progress was made to-day.

Italian circles state to-day that the talks have been very cordial and that the whole field of Anglo-Italian relations is being discussed, thus paving the way for a further exchange of views.

While it is realized that a difficult task lies ahead, nevertheless, much will be gained if both sides appreciate the value of any contribution that can be made to a general appeasement.

The Italians consider that the conversations between Count Grandi and Mr. Eden, are preparatory work to discover if there is a basis for the opening of formal discussions.

The British view is understood to be that the Spanish question should be liquidated before other problems in the relations between Britain and Italy can be approached.

Count Grandi's visit to the Foreign Office this afternoon is a continuation of the conversations which he has had in the past few days with the Foreign Secretary and Lord Plymouth, Chairman of the Non-Intervention Committee.—Reuter.

AUSTRIAN EX-OFFICIAL HELD IN BERLIN

Berlin, Feb. 10.

The police to-day arrested Herr Hans Winkler, former Austrian Vice-Chancellor. The arrest was not due to political motives but to a charge of smuggling foreign exchange. Herr Winkler, who was later released, took refuge in Germany since 1934, living in Berlin as correspondent of Basle and Prague newspapers. The investigation is being continued by the police authorities.—Havas.

U.S. Congress Again Aroused By Hint of Pact

Senator Johnson Demands Further Explanation

ALLIANCES UNWANTED

"New York Times" Report Agitates House

Washington, Feb. 10.

Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican of California, announced in the Senate here to-day that he would demand of the Administration further clarification of United States foreign policy.

He made his announcement in replying to Senator Hamilton Lewis, Democrat of Illinois, who criticized "the concerted effort of so-called educators" to discredit the Administration's foreign policy.

Senator Johnson earlier this week drew from Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, a flat denial that any naval agreements or understandings existed between the United States and foreign Powers.

Senator Johnson to-day recalled that Mr. Hull later had said in commenting on recurrent reports of an Anglo-American naval understanding that there had been much irresponsible discussion of international affairs.

"There have been no irresponsible statements on foreign policy of which I know," Senator Johnson shouted angrily in the Senate today, "except one in which our Chief Executive talked of 'quarantines' against certain nations.

Big Navy, No Alliances

I am in favour of a big navy, but I do not favour any alliance or understanding with other powers because that means war and that means we will reap the same consequences as in 1918."

Recalling Mr. Hull's denials of the reported existence of an Anglo-American naval agreement, Senator Johnson said: "I accepted that declaration as conclusive, but I feel the Secretary of State and I were taken for a ride the other day. I felt perhaps there was something in the wind of which he and I did not known."

Report Arouses Congress

The "New York Times" report from Mr. Arthur Krock, its correspondent, stating that expert sources had revealed a tacit naval understanding between the United States and Britain aroused urgent demands for information on American foreign policy in Congress to-day."

Mr. Krock reported that the agreement was the type conveyed by a "wink or nod" and not the kind of understanding that might be uncovered by a Senate investigation.

Mr. Ralph O. Brewster, Republican Representative of Maine, read the report before the House of Representatives Naval Affairs Committee and later demanded that Mr. Krock be summoned to give the source of his information.

"I demand that we call Mr. Krock to a Committee meeting to tell us where he gets this information that we cannot get," Mr. Brewster shouted before the Committee. "Are we mice or are we men?"

Mr. Joseph B. Shannon, Democratic Representative of Missouri, joined Mr. Brewster in demanding that Mr. Krock be summoned.

"Not only should we call Mr. Krock to testify before the Committee," Mr. Shannon said, "but we should call everyone connected with the 'New York Times'." He attacked the policies of the "Times," alleging that its purpose was to draw the United States into war. He said the "Times" represented the British Empire in the United States.

Mr. Carl Vinson, Democratic Representative of Georgia and author of the Vinson Navy Bill now under consideration by the Naval Affairs Committee, announced the Committee would vote at an open session tomorrow on whether to summon Mr. Krock to testify.

Peace at Any Price

Mr. Frederick Libby, secretary of the Council for the Prevention of War, earlier exchanged sharp remarks with Mr. Melvin J. Maas, Republican Representative of Minnesota and member of the Naval Affairs Committee.

"I would favour peace from foreign wars at any price," Mr. Libby told the Committee after Mr. Maas asked him whether he preferred peace at any price. "There is no country in the world free to attack us to-day." He argued that the present situation obviated any necessity for strengthening the United States Navy, specifically opposing the Vinson Bill which would increase the strength of the Navy by a flat 20 per cent.

Prof. Charles Beard, noted American historian, again testified at the Committee hearings to-day and extended his remarks of yesterday against the Vinson Bill.

"From long travel and study," he said, "I am convinced that the whole of the Orient from Manchoukuo to Singapore is not worth the bones of one American man....I say stay out of it."—United Press.

BRITAIN AND U.S. PLAN BIG SHIPS

Japanese Reply Expected to Be Unsatisfactory

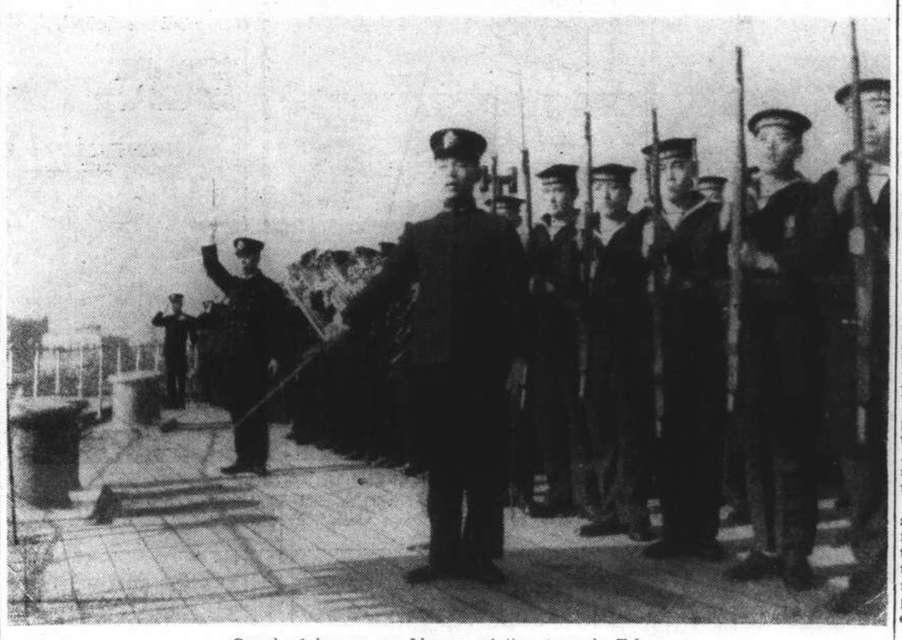
London, Feb. 10.

The United States and Britain already have decided to build warships beyond the 35,000-ton battleship and 8,000-ton cruiser limitations of the London Naval Treaty, authoritative sources informed the United Press here to-day.

Formal announcement by Britain and America of their intention to invoke the escalator clause of the London Treaty will be delayed until Japan has made her reply to British, French and American Notes requesting publication of Japan's naval construction plans, it was said.

Japan's reply is expected to be unsatisfactory to the three Democracies, observers pointed out, and this expectation has led Britain and the United States to decide on naval expansion beyond the limits of the London Treaty.—United Press.

JAPANESE CELEBRATE EMPIRE DAY



Guard of honour on Idzumo saluting towards Tokyo.

The Japanese yesterday celebrated Empire Day, which has special significance this year as it is the 2,598th anniversary of the foundation of the Japanese Empire and the 50th anniversary of the promulgation of the Constitution. Szechuen Crisis Over Governor Is Not Settled

Rumours of "Ultimatum" by Provincial Leaders

CENTRAL GOVT. OFFICIALS CONFER IN HANKOW

Chungking, Feb. 11.

Chungking is seething with alarming rumours as a result of the political crisis over the appointment of General Chang Chun, former Foreign Minister, as Chairman of the Szechuen Provincial Government in succession to the late General Liu Hsiang.

Despite widespread reports to the contrary Chinese sources here declare that the dispute has not been settled and that the provincial military authorities have not withdrawn their opposition to the appointment of General Chang.

One of the rumours in circulation in Chungking to-day is that the recalcitrant military leaders have issued an "ultimatum" to the Central Government declaring that they will not accept General Chang Chun and even hinting that they will use force if necessary.

Meanwhile, it has been officially announced that General Chang has been appointed commander of the Peace Preservation Corps in Szechuen province, thus strengthening his position at the expense of that of General Wong Fong-tso, popularly named as leader of the opposition. General Wong at one time commanded the Corps.

Worst Possible Time

The general feeling here is that, whatever the rights and wrongs of the case, it is the worst possible time for displays of private motives in face of the Japanese menace, and that the Central Government at this juncture should be supported against the military cliques.

Yesterday, Mr. Lu Tso-fu, Vice-Minister of Communications, and General Ho Kuo-kwan, commander of the Central Government's garrison in Chungking, arrived here yesterday by air from Chengtu, where they had been conferring with the Szechuen military leaders, with Mr. Lu Han-tse, provincial Minister of Finance.

These officials held an important conference to-day, but hitherto the outcome of the talk has not been divulged.

Mr. Lu Tso-fu, who was scheduled to leave by air for Hankow this morning in order to report on the situation to General Chiang Kai-shek, deferred his departure because of the conference.—Reuter.

BRITISH PLEA ON AIR BOMBINGS APPROVED

Spanish Ambassador Appreciates Document

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Feb. 10.

The Spanish Ambassador in London, Senor Pablo de Azcarate y Florez, replying to the anti-bombing appeal presented at the Spanish Embassy yesterday, stated that the Spanish Government appreciated the document.

It considered the appeal, he said, in the light of an endorsement of the action that the Government had already taken.

Copies of the document were presented to the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Spanish Embassy and General Franco's representative in London.—Reuter.

Election of Council on April 4 and 5

A notice under the signature of Mr. N. Aall, Consul General for Norway and Senior Consul, and published by authority of the Treaty Power Consuls, appears in the advertising columns of this journal to-day announcing that Monday and Tuesday, April 4 and 5, have been fixed for the election of Councillors and for the election, by registered owners of land in the Foreign Settlement, of a Land Commissioner for the municipal year 1938. Nomination papers must be delivered to the Secretary of the Shanghai Municipal Council, Administration Building, 209 Kiangse Road, not later than noon on Saturday, March 26.

Constable Takes Three Britons to Gendarmes' Post

Brothers Later Released Promptly by S.M.P.

WORKING FOR BRITISH FIRM WHEN SEIZED

Three brothers, British, were arrested by a Japanese constable of the Shanghai Municipal Police at 395 Wuchow Road early yesterday afternoon and taken by him to the headquarters of the Japanese Gendarmerie in Woosung Road, whence they were finally allowed to be sent to the Hongkew Police Station and from there to the Kashing Road Police Station. They were released promptly from the Kashing Road Station as apparently nothing whatever weighed against them. They returned to their homes in the International Settlement late yesterday afternoon.

The three Britons were Mr. W. W. Tyler, a resident of the Embankment Building, North Soochow Road, and his two brothers. They had been engaged by a British land agent with offices downtown to do certain repairs at the Wuchow Road address to structures damaged during last year's hostilities. They were arrested by Japanese Constable 84, who instead of referring the "case" to the proper Settlement police station, took the three men to the office of the Japanese Gendarmerie, a Japanese military body.

It could not be learned last night whether the Tyler brothers had made a complaint to the British Consul-General about the treatment accorded them by the Japanese Settlement policeman and the Japanese military authorities.

FURTHER U.S. RELIEF FUNDS ASKED

President Wants $50,000,000: 3,000,000 Have Lost Jobs

Washington, Feb. 10.

A supplementary appropriation of approximately $50,000,000 for relief expenditure, to meet recent unemployment increases, was asked for by President Roosevelt in a special message to Congress to-day.

During the past three months, the President said, 2,000,000 persons had lost their jobs.

The new appropriation, he explained, would be spent almost entirely in industrial centres, particularly in motor manufacturing cities —Reuter.

Colony British Naval Officials Confirm Landing

Protest to Japanese Over Weihaiwei Incident

H.M.S. DELIGHT LEAVES FOR NORTHERN PORT

Hongkong, Feb. 11.

British naval authorities confirmed here to-day the landing of Japanese troops at Weihaiwei early this week and the lodging of protests with the Japanese officers by British authorities. Japanese spokesmen in Shanghai yesterday had denied that Japanese had landed at Weihaiwei or that any British protests had been received.

Japanese forces were said to have been landed near British property on Liukungtao Island. After negotiations with British officials, reports said, the Japanese agreed to withdraw. The Japanese cruisers are still standing by off the island, however.

British authorities are said to have informed the Japanese that all future dealings with both Chinese and Britons regarding Weihaiwei must be made through the British consul who is watching both Chinese and British interests in Weihaiwei since the departure of the Chinese Commissioner who arrived in Hongkong early in January.—United Press.

Destroyer on Her Way

Tsingtao, Feb. 11.

The 1,875-ton destroyer H.M.S. Delight left for Weihaiwei yesterday afternoon. The destroyer will relieve the 1,045-ton patrol sloop H.M.S. Sandwich, which arrived yesterday morning.

The 9,800-ton cruiser H.M.S. Suffolk is already at Weihaiwei, while H.M.S. Capetown is en route there from Hongkong.

At present two Japanese warships, believed to be cruisers, are at Weihaiwei.—Reuter.

BRITAIN IS EAGER FOR ARMS LIMIT

Mr. Chamberlain Takes Same View as Mr. Cordell Hull

London, Feb. 10.

In an answer in the House of Commons to-day, the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, referred to the recently reported statement by Mr. Cordell Hull, the American Secretary of State, that while the United States were compelled, in a world in which increasing construction of armaments was a regrettable fact ,to render adequate their military and naval establishment, they were ready at any time to join with other nations in a common effort to bring about a limitation, or a general reduction of armaments by agreement.

Mr. Chamberlain said: 'I can assure the House that these are also the views of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Chamberlain agreed to the suggestion of the Leader of the Labour Opposition, Mr. C. R. Attlee, that a day should be given for general discussion of defence before the estimates for individual services are taken. He also consented to a proposal for a White Paper to be issued in advance of the debate, giving details of the progress of rearmament and the work of the Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence.—Wireless through Reuter.

Unionists Gain Clear Mandate At Ulster Polls

Partition Issue Answered, Says Lord Craigavon

MR. DE VALERA SEES NO DIFFERENCE MADE

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Feb. 11.

Nationalist sentiment was apparently stronger in Ulster during the general elections which nevertheless resulted in an overwhelming victory for Lord Craigavon, the Prime Minister.

There were numerous spoiled papers, especially in divisions where there were no Nationalist candidates. A number of papers had scrawled across them the words "No partition."

In East Tyrone, the only constituency where there was a straight fight on the partition issue between the Unionists and the Nationalists, the latter won by a majority of more than 1,000 in an 87 per cent. poll—one of the highest in the election.

At the election on November 30, 1933, there were returned 37 Unionists, nine Nationalists, two Independent Unioniss, two Labour, one Fianna Fail, and one I.R.A. Republican.—Reuter.

State of the Parties

Belfast, Feb. 10.

Ulster elections resulted to-day in a complete victory for Viscount Craigavon, the Prime Minister. With four University seats outstanding, the state of the parties is now:—

Unionists	35	Nationalists	8
Independent Unionists	2	Independent Labour	1
Labour	1	Independent	1

Viscount Craigavon, in commenting on the results, said that the election was fought on the direct issue of Ulster's position within the United Kingdom and the Empire.

Mr. Eamon de Valera, the Prime Minister of Eire, had again "presumed to raise that issue with the British Government," he declared, "and had placed the unification of Ireland as item number one in the programme of his conversations at 10 Downing Street. The result of the elections, however, wiped that item off his agenda."

Viscount Craigavon added that it was now clear, beyond all possible doubt, that this talk of United Ireland was just another "will-o'-the-wisp."—Reuter.

Mr. de Valera Comments

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Dublin, Feb. 10.

Commenting on the results of the Ulster elections to-day, Mr. Eamon de Valera, the Prime Minister of Eire, said that they were not surprising.

The gerrymandering of constituencies, he declared, was designed to stereotype misrepresentation and to preserve the unassailable position of the dictatorship of Lord Craigavon and his sectarian party.

Lord Craigavon makes a mistake, Mr. de Valera stated. As long as the nationalist aspirations, recovery of that part of Ulster which was torn away, it will be the first item in every Anglo-Irish conference until it is finally wiped off, by added.—Reuter.

HANKOW HAILS MOVE IN LONDON

Aid-China Conference Is Heartily Endorsed

Hankow, Feb. 11.

An extremely elaborate programme has been arranged here in support of the opening in London to-morrow, under the auspices of the International Peace Campaign, of an international conference to organize a boycott of Japanese goods and aid for China.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek is understood to be sending a personal cablegram to the Conference expressing the gratification of the Chinese Government and people "for the world's support of China's resistance," and urging the adoption of concrete and effective measures.

Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Chairman of the Central Political Council of the Kuomintang, and Dr. Wang Chung-hui, Chinese Foreign Minister, broadcast brief addresses at 4 o'clock this morning explaining China's stand in connection with the London conference. The addresses were relayed to 100,000,000 radio listeners in the United States and England.

Among those expected to be present at the conference in London to-morrow are Mme. Sun Yat-sen.

Japan has occupied one-fifth of China's territory, comprising 818,000 square miles, and the number of war refugees has reached a figure of 125,000,000, or one-third of the country's population.

This statement is contained in a telegram sent by various public bodies in Hankow to Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, head of the British delegation to the Conference.

The telegram urges the conference to adopt the following resolutions:

1. Japan is an enemy of mankind.
2. To enforce economic and financial sanctions against Japan and a ban on the export of munitions, technicians, food-stuffs and medicines to Japan.
3. To render economic, financial and and technical assistance to China, who should be supplied with munitions in order to assist her in her resistance.
4. To make an appeal to the League of Nations to enforce Articles XVI and XVII of the Covenant, and to adopt a resolution refusing to recognize regimes established in China by Japan.—Reuter.

HERR HITLER TO VISIT ROME IN MAY

German Leader to Be Guest of King at Quirinal

Berlin, Feb. 10.

Herr Adolf Hitler will leave for Rome during the first two weeks in May and will be the guest of King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal. His visit will last for six days, during which he will attend a grand military and naval review at Rome, and the folklore fetes at Florence and in the province of Toscana.

Herr Hitler cannot speak Italian. Sig. Mussolini addressed the German people in their own language.—Havas.

RUMANIAN KING MOVES SWIFTLY TO END CRISIS

Royal Dictatorship Will Rule Through Army

SOVIET COUP FEARED

Church Patriarch Heads All-Talent Cabinet

Bucharest, Feb. 11.

A non-parliamentary Royal dictatorship is in force in Rumania following the unexpected resignation yesterday of the National Christian Cabinet, headed by M. Octavian Goga, after a little more than a month in power.

In a proclamation to-day, King Carol states that, although for eight years he has endeavoured to rule the country on a Parliamentary basis, propaganda connected with the forthcoming General Election has provoked serious unrest in the life and spirit of the people.

"Rumania," the monarch declares, "must be saved. I am resolved to end the present dangerous conditions and, without hesitation, to pass urgent reforms. For this purpose I have formed a government of responsible men, free from every party activity, who will issue decrees in accordance with the new requirements of the country."

The new Cabinet is headed by M. Miron Christea, Patriarch of the Orthodox Church, and one of its first acts has been to extend to every part of the country the state of siege which was imposed in Bucharest and other big cities after the murder of the Premier, M. Duce, in 1933.

Army Takes Control

All powers for the maintenance of public order have passed to the military authorities, but the police remain under the orders of the Ministry of the Interior.

Rigorous censorship now prevails throughout the country, while parliamentary and municipal elections and other political activities have been suspended.

Troops are on the move everywhere with instructions to round up all provocative agents, whether of the Right or Left, and to shoot to kill if necessary.

Fascist and Communist agents were on the eve of making Rumania a second Spain, according to political observers, who are convinced that Moscow chose an opportune moment, when Germany was occupied with internal troubles, to effect the fall of the Goga Cabinet.

They believe that the mysterious disappearance of the Russian Chargé dAffaires, M. Theodore Butenko, the main cause of the crisis, was not foreign to the plot.

Jews Jubilant

Jews throughout the country are rejoicing at the downfall of the Goga Government, which caused a sensation by its anti-Semitic policy, when it took office last December.

The main cause of the latest crisis was the receipt of the strong protest from the Soviet Government over the disappearance of the Soviet Chargé d'Affaires, from the Legation here on Sunday.

The new Cabinet includes all the former premiers, with the exception of M. Goga and M. Julius Maniu, leader of the National Peasant Party, who did not agree to enter a combination described as the "Ministry of National Concentration."

M. George Tatarescu, the premier who preceded M. Goga, is now Vice-Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Previously, King Carol saw M. Maniu, along with six former premiers, with the object, it was believed, of exploring the possibility of a union of all the democratic parties for a new regime.

M. Maniu subsequently told Reuter that his party was ready to assume the responsibility of government, and would especially welcome close co-operation with Great Britain, France and the League of Nations.

Fascist Leader Ignored

The only political leader who had not been summoned to the Palace, following M. Goga's resignation, was M. Zelea Codreanu, who, with Gen. George Cantacuzino, leads the "All for Country" group of the former Iron Guard Fascist organization.

The Goga Government swung into immediate action on its formation in December, following the resignation of the Tatarescu Cabinet, when it announced the replacement of all provincial administrators by members of the National Christian Party, dissolution of municipal councils, creation of a Propaganda Ministry, formation of an army of 200,000 Storm Troops from the semi-military organization already in existence in the National Christian Party.

The National Christian Party was formed by the fusion in July, 1935, of Prof. Cuza's anti-Semitic group, the "National Christian Defence League," and the greater part of M. Goga's "National Agrarian" party.—Reuter.

R.A.F. PLANE SETS SPEED RECORD

Blind Flying Achievement of About 409 M.P.H.

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, Feb. 10.

The new hurricane fighter, a Royal Air Force aeroplane, flew 352 miles to-day from Edinburgh to Northolt in 48 minutes, at an approximate speed of 409 miles an hour. The flight was accomplished under normal service conditions after dusk.

The machine was piloted by Squadron-Leader J. W. Gillan, who thus becomes the world's fastest pilot overland in a land plane.

Squadron-Leader Gillan accomplished the feat "flying blind," as he could not see anything of the course or surroundings—only the instruments on his machine.

The record means that a speed of nearly-seven miles a minute has been achieved in a machine designed for the defence of Great Britain, and not in a record-breaking 'plane.

Squadron-Leader Gillan is of Scottish descent, born in Nanital, India, and has served in the Far East and in the Mediterranean.—Reuter.

A REHABILITATION SCHEME

An Appeal for Accommodation and Help, Sorely Needed for Refugee Workers

By Mrs. Robert F. Fitch, Chairman Shanghai International Red Cross, Projects Committee

CHARITABLE Organizations for many months past have been taking care of thousands of refugees—they are still taking care of thousands of refugees in camps in and around Shanghai—are they expected to go on doing so indefinitely? No. These refugees must be aided in helping to solve their own problems. How? By a workable rehabilitation scheme such as is being sponsored by the Shanghai International Red Cross Projects Committee.

Thousands of refugees are being fed and sheltered by charity and this through no fault of their own—by force of circumstances and not by choice. They have always worked, and they are anxious to work, and, equally important, the merchants and exporters of world famed Chinese Embroidery are anxious to have their work—they need the work in order to carry on their export trade. This was clearly pointed out in a letter in the various local newspapers last Saturday signed by Dr. Baker, Director of the Shanghai International Red Cross. Personally, the importance of this industrial work was brought home to me some months ago when talking with merchants and exporters, who were bewailing the fact that "business was dead" so far as the silk and cotton embroidery export was concerned. Their pre-war!! workers were scattered north, south, east and west—they were lost; the factories were equally "lost" — burned down or closed; orders from abroad were being turned down and lost—were being placed elsewhere. Would they come back to China? If they did come back would the workers be found to do the work? Where were they? Where are they?

Chinese Embroidery Workers

Just about this time General Chiang Kai-shek made an appeal to have the industries of China kept in China. Chinese embroidery, as every one knows, is world-famed—and this industry was being threatened—its loss would take away the livelihood of thousands of women workers. Also just about this same time as one went in and out of the refugee camps one was struck with the pathos of seeing hundreds of men and women sitting and lying around idle—idleness so demoralizing that one could not but tremble at the thought of the future. Investigation soon proved that there were several thousand trained embroidery workers in the various Camps.

Three stupendous facts:—

Idleness and its inevitable demoralization must be overcome.

Those who did not know any handicraft or trade must be taught.

Those who had previously been engaged in some handicraft or trade must work.

Here was the basis for a rehabilitation scheme. The "lost" workers were at hand in the camps, they wanted work, and the merchants wanted their work; China wanted and needed both merchant and worker. Why not use our camps to get them together?

Just because force of circumstances had made these men and women homeless, why should Charitable Organizations try to make them "charity cases" when work was waiting for them? These people are anxious to earn money, anxious to help pay for their food. The Shanghai International Red Cross, is, as Dr. Baker has already pointed out, interested in a rehabilitation scheme undertaken by its Projects Committe. The scheme is only in the experimental stage, but any one who wishes to visit the Training Camp and Industrial Camp in 268 Elgin Road, Lane 17 and in 730 Boone Road (corner of N. Honan) will be given a warm welcome. In the former place, i.e. Elgin Road, Mr. P. C. Lee and Mr. M. Francis Waung, representing the Federation of Shanghai Charity Organizations for Relief Work are holding themselves responsible for the initial training of workers; when trained these refugees report to and work in the Industrial Camp in Boone Road, and receive full pay for their work. This "Training Camp" and "Industrial Camp" together constitute the rehabilitation scheme being carried out by the Projects Committee of the Shanghai International Red Cross. Training in one camp and paid labour in another means a considerable amount of extra work and supervising, and we hope soon to locate both camps in one place.

So far we have only mentioned embroidery work—but basket work and straw weaving is also being done. Embroidery work and basket work involve a small amount of carpentry, i.e. moulds for the baskets and frames for the embroidery—men and boys are being employed for this type of work; and, one thing leading to another, it has already been suggested that we start the making of wooden toys in the carpentry room. This will be done if we can get a definite market for the finished articles.

Again, in a little back yard some time ago I saw quite a number of young men and boys making tea and biscuit tins. This being easy work and requiring very little outlay we feel we might approach the tin merchants, and ask their co-operation, thus utilizing men and boys whose fingers were not quite deft enough to make a success of basket or toy making.

Merchants Co-operating

It might be of interest to readers briefly to outline the general scheme for this industrial work —

First and formost, merchants are co-operating with us. They are supplying the material (i.e., silk, linen, cotton, straw, etc.) and teachers to train beginners — most of these beginners advance to the Industrial Camp as wage-earners in from ten days for basket working and two to three weeks for embroidery. The merchants have promised to pay full pre-"war" wages, the money to be paid to the Chairman of the Projects Committee of the Shanghai International Red Cross, or his or her duly authorized representative, who, in turn, pays it over to the worker, less 25 per cent. which he or she agrees to pay towards food. This 25 per cent. will be paid to the Shanghai International Red Cross in cash weekly. Out of the 75 per cent. paid to the worker, he or she may receive in cash 10 per cent. for spending money, the balance of 65 per cent. or 75 per cent. of total wages is to be BANKED IN THE HONGKONG AND SHANGHAI BANK, and is to be paid in full to the refugee when he or she finally leaves Camp. The refugees each have their own savings deposit bank card, and know at all times just how much money they have saved. And how different their outlook on leaving the Camp. How wonderful to then to know that they at least have some food money in hand, and a little towards rent and possible rehabilitation. How different the outlook from the Charity Organization point of view—no longer feeling that refugees have to be turned out of camps penniless.

The above is a rehabilitation scheme. We need help. Who will help us?

Accommodation Badly Needed

It is absolutely necessary to have space to accommodate at least 500 (and that is a miserable minimum, preferably 1000 to 1500) workers in one industrial camp—and we need a minimum of six such camps in different parts of Shanghai. At first sight many will be inclined to say "Why such industrial camps? Why not let the refugees work in the Camps where they are? The answer is quickly forthcoming. In an Industrial Camp supervision is made possible, and the work is on a business like footing; the "leakage" of merchants' valuable material is controlled—and the leakage in the past has been so great that merchants could no longer promise co-operation, so much material wasted by unsupervised, or inadequately supervised work.

Will anyone of our readers offer us the use of vacant property suitable for carrying on such industrial work?

We need helpers. Will any of our foreign friends offer their services one day a week. The merchant has his own supervisor or trainer who superintends and passes on all work done—that responsibility is his; but this whole scheme is sponsored by the Shanghai International Red Cross and we need the co-operation of foreign friends. With a band of capable and willing workers each Industrial Camp would be under daily "relay" supervision by at least one Chinese and one foreign helper. Only in this way will the merchant feel that his valuable material is under suitable protection. Unfortunately many ladies who had volunteered their services for this work, missionaries, are now being called upon to teach in the various schools that are being opened this month. We make an appeal for help to replace these volunteers. The merchants are co-operating with us and we must co-operate with them. Who will help us? Surely the cause is a worthy one. Help the Red Cross and other Charitable Organizations to rehabilitate the refugees. Help the refugees to help themselves. Owners of vacant property, can you offer us the use of such property? Ladies who are the owners of spare time, can you, and will you offer us a little of your time—one day a week, or even-half a day regularly. We ask your co-operation.

Those who can help are asked to communicate with Mrs. Robert F. Fitch, room 520, Missions Building 169 Yuen Ming Yuen Road.

OBITUARY

Mr. Yung Tsung-chin

Mr. Yung Chung-chin, Chinese flour and cotton yarn magnate, who left here for Hongkong over a month ago to recuperate from ill health, passed away in the Colony at 5 p.m. on Thursday.

Mr. Yung, who was 66 years of age, came to Shanghai from his Wusih home at the age of 15. His business career began with a $2.000 money exchange shop. At the age of 30, he took a keen interest in the development of industries in China, particularly flour and cotton industries.

He launched his first flour enterprise by establishing the Pao Hsin flour mill at Wusih, which eventually brought him control over many flour and cotton yarn factories.

To meet the demands of the European market, Mr. Yung founded the Fo Shing flour mills at the outbreak of the World War. He also built factories at Hankow and Tsinan.

In addition to his flour enterprises, Mr. Yung also took great interest in cotton industry. In 1900, he established the Chen Hsin cotton mill at Wusih. Sung Sing cotton mills were later established in Shanghai, Wusih, Hankow and Changchow.

At the height of his prosperity, more than 50.000 workers were employed in his plants, which had a business turn-over valued at about $100,000,000 a year.

The depression after the first Sino-Japanese hostilities in Shanghai also affected his enterprises. Although his business seemed to have improved with the increase of purchasing power in rural districts, many of his factories located in the war zone were destroyed in the present conflict.

A philanthropist who frequently contributed to charity and to the cause of education, Mr. Yung was responsible for the founding of six schools and a public library at Wusih.

Mr. Yung leaves behind three sons, three daughters and three grandsons.

MR. T. V. SOONG TO VISIT HANKOW

Hongkong, Feb. 11.

Mr. T. V. Soong, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Bank of China, is leaving for Hankow by plane this week-end, it was learned here to-day.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Mme. Chiang Kai-shek was indisposed with gastric trouble. Madame Chiang has been a visitor in the Colony for several days.—United Press.

BUDGET OF P.W.D. FOR 1938 CUT

Estimates of $3,806,380 Before Committee

BUND PASSENGER JETTY NOT INCLUDED

The estimates of expenditure of the Public Works Department of the Shanghai Municipal Council for 1938 were submitted to a meeting of the Works Committee on February 7.

The Treasurer and Controller reported that as originally submitted, the estimates of ordinary expenditure showed an apparent reduction of $658,253 on last year's budget. Later revised estimates were submitted and after adjustments had been made amounted to $3,806,380, representing a net reduction of $1,061,930 on the 1937 budget.

Reductions have been made in all sections of the estimates except "General" where, due to a revision in the method of distributing charges for personnel, there appears an increase of $549,340 which, however, is reflected in the various reductions set out hereunder:—

Reductions:—
Buildings	$204,630
Creeks and River	51,000
Drainage and Sewerage	21,770
House Refuse	263,700
Roads—Maintenance	922.500
Roads—Cleansing	106.820
Lighting	10,000
Parks and Open Spaces	30.850
	1,611,270
Less—Increase under "General"	549.340
	$1,061,930
Stock and Stores (net reduction)	$5,740

In submitting his estimates of ordinary expenditure, the Commissioner of Public Works reported that nothing had been included for the repair of damage due to hostilities, much of which cannot be estimated, nor for the cost of any emergency measures. It had been assumed that the Department's activities would cover the same areas as before and that the cost of materials would not be seriously altered. Allowance had been made for some probable changes in other factors compared with a normal year. The reductions in expendit re would not impair the standard of any essential services and had been achieved mainly by reductions in personnel made possible by the further amalgamation of staffs in allied branches and the re-organization of the combined Highways, Sewerage and Drainage Branch only recently completed.

War Damages

With regard to buildings, it had been assumed that repairs to buildings damaged owing to the hostilities would be charged to a special account. The saving shown on roads maintenance was due partly to limiting as far as possible road improvements, but chiefly to the complete re-organization of this branch combined with the Sewerage and Drainage Branch.

The total estimated expenditure for Parks and Open Spaces show a net reduction of $30,850, compared with the previous year's budget. This was due mainly to reductions in staff after a detailed review of the work of the whole personnel throughout the year.

The estimates of extraordinary expenditure for 1938 relating to the Public Works Department as submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works totalled $1,525,065. After full consideration in meeting, the estimates were reduced to $1,179,400 and it was decided to refer to the Finance Committee the question as to whether or not the appropriation for the acquisition of land for new roads, etc., and the cost of construction thereof should be further amended. The provision covering a portion of the cost of The Bund Passenger Landing Jetty was tentatively excised, but in this case the matter was referred to the Council for decision as to whether or not provision should be included.

In amplification of his report on the estimates of Ordinary Expenditure, the Commissioner of Public Works stated that the reduction on last year's budget, amounting to over a million dollars, was the cumulative result of work on reorganization extending over the past two or three years, the full value of which was being reaped this year. Much saving had been effected by combining various sections under one head. For instance, house refuse collection and disposal, street cleansing and ordure collection and disposal were now controlled by a single branch.

Praise Over Economies

The Chairman of the Works Committee congratulated the Commissioner of Public Works on the economies achieved.

The estimates of the Department were approved by the Works Committee and on presentation to the Council on Wednesday were referred to the Finance Committee for consideration prior to final endorsement by the Council, it being decided not to include provision in this year's budget for The Bund Passenger Landing Jetty.

Launching a relief campaign for crippled soldiers and sailors, the Japanese Federation of Labour on February 10 donated Y.2.000 each to the Ministries of War and Navy.

WEDDING

Kazak-Gavriloff

A beautiful wedding was solemnized yesterday afternoon at St. Nicolas's Church, when Miss Helen Gavriloff was married to Mr. Eugene Kazak of the Shanghai Telephone Company. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very charming in her white heavy crêpe gown cut on princess lines, and a beautiful sheaf of lilies was carried.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Margarita Kazak, Sophie Stellingwerff, Ludmila Volkoff and Alla Voronoff wore high-waisted frocks made of blue satin-crêpe.

The ushers were Messrs. V. Dronnikoff, V. Borinevitch, G. Bankham, T. Waldy, T. Melbardt and A. Nolting.

Mrs. J. Kazak, mother of the bridegroom, wore a silver-grey gown and Mrs. V. A. Gavriloff, mother of the bride, had a silver-blue gown with a high collar.

After the ceremony at the church, a reception was held at Savoy Apartments, where the bride and bridgroom received the congratulations of their numerous friends.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION MEETING

The February meeting of the Shanghai Chapter of the "Daughters of the American Revolution" was held on February 9 at the home of Mrs. C. L. Boynton, 11 Avenue Petain. The making of hospital pads for refugee work was the order of the day. After tea, the meeting was opened by the Regent, Miss Cornelia Richardson with the usual Ritual and Salute to the Flag.

Following committee reports, Mrs. M. B. Dozier, sister of Mr. Boynton who is visiting here from her home in Southern California, gave a resume, full of early colonial colour, of an incident in the life of Paul Revere, whose memory has been kept warm through a famous poem—"Hardly a man is now alive, who remembers that famous day and year".

Photographs of the Concord "Minute Man" and the Boynton Monument of Revolutionary period helped to establish a suitable atmosphere.

Mrs. A. M. Dunlap then gave a resume of the second part of "France and the American Revolution" by Dr. L. C. Smith, of the Congressional Library in Washington, a fascinating and impartial treatise on the reasons for lasting friendship of the French and American peoples, as shown in the Revolutionary period, based on ideals of freedom and equality.

He is introduced by M. Andre de Laboulaye, Ambassador of France to the United States, on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the gift of the Statue of Liberty, in New York Harbour from the French to the American nation.

Dr. Smith's research narrative is based on a source, of material hitherto unpublished, and discloses to an extraordinary degree the eighteenth century contribution of France to American Independence. Surely a friendship so bred and supported should be a lasting heritage.

JAPANESE NAVAL AIR ACE KILLED

Brought Down in Combat with Soviet-Made Planes

Lieut. Ryohei Ushioda, one of the Japanese Navy's best combat fliers, was killed on January 7 in an encounter with a flock of Soviet-made planes near Nanchang, local Japanese newspapers belatedly reported yesterday.

Sharing with Lieut. Mochifumi Nango the honour of premier position in the air force, Lieut. Ushioda met his death as he was returning from a raid on Nanchang, at the head of ten fighting machines. In the half-hour immediately preceding his fatal plunge to the earth, the Japanese flier had brought down seven Chinese machines, most of them the speedy E-16's flown to China from Russia across Sinkiang.

Lieut. Ushioda's unit escorted Lieut.-Commander Naohira Sata's air armada of 24 bombers in a raid on the famed Chinese air base. As the bombers dumped their explosives upon ten grounded Chinese planes and hangars, Lieut. Ushioda's unit engaged a force of 20 Chinese pursuit planes which rose in the air to give battle to the raiders.

In the ensuing combat, the Japanese officer personally accounted for five Chinese machines. Disheartened, the remaining Chinese airmen fled into the safety of thick clouds.

As the Japanese force was returning to its base, the Chinese planes, however, reappeared and attacked the heavy bombers. Sighting the approaching Chinese machines, Lieut. Ushioda dropped out of the formation and challenged the attackers.

In a grim encounter, Lieut. Ushioda shot down two Chinese machines, before a Chinese bullet sent his craft hurtling down into the waters of Lake Hanyang.

JAPANESE CELEBRATE EMPIRE DAY

Ceremonies Held on Idzumo and at Shinto Shrine

BOWS MADE TOWARDS IMPERIAL PALACE

Japanese nationals in China, from the flag-bedecked streets of Hongkew to the snow-blanketed battlefields of Anhwet, Honan and Shansi, yesterday solemnly observed Empire Day.

This year's festivities had an enhanced significance, since they marked both the 2,598th anniversary of the accession of Emperor Jimmu, Japan's first ruler, to the Throne and the 50th anniversary of the primulgation of the Constitution.

Local celebrations were started with religious ceremonies aboard the cruiser Idzumo and in the headquarters of the Special Naval Landing Party, followed by similar rites in the Shanghai Shinto Shrine, Kiangwan Road, at 11 o'clock in the morning.

Crowded to capacity with local Japanese residents, the Shrine compound presented an impressive sight, as the Rising Sun flag slowly rose to the masthead to the singing of the national anthem. Following bows in the direction of the Imperial Palace in Tokyo, the assembly heard a message of felicitations from Mr. Masusaburi Amano, Presiden of the Japanese Residents' Corporation, and sang Empire Day songs.

Foreign warships in port were dressed in honour of the day and all Japanese business houses flew the national flag.

MARINE BRIGADE CHURCH

Y. K. Sze Well Known Basso Guest Artist

To-morrow morning at the Second United States Marine Brigade church service and concert, held in the Grand Theatre, Mr. Y. K. Sze, noted Chinese basso soloist, will be the guest artist in the concert. Mr. Sze was the guest artist in the Fourth Marines' band concert a very short time ago. He has a most unusual and excellent voice which is always enjoyed by music lovers. Mr. Sze will sing, with band accompaniment, two lovely arias composed by Verdi, "Infelice! e tuo credevi" from "Ernani" and "Dormiro sol nel manto mio regal" from "Don Carlos." The fourth Marines' Band, under the direction of the Bandmaster, Tech. Sgt. Leon Freda, will introduce the concert with the Overture "Nabucodonsor," play a selection composed by Boito "Mefistofele," and conclude the programme with the Marines' Hymn and the American National Anthem.

In the church service, at 10 a.m. which precedes the concert, the Rev. W. Robert Taylor, of Shanghai, will conduct the service and deliver the sermon, due to the absence of the Chaplain Lieut. Frank R. Hamilton, from Shanghai. Mr. Taylor's sermon subject will be "God's Uncommon Use of Common Men." As an added feature four members of the Fourth Marines' Band will play "Sacred Medley," a brass quartet. Band selections, under the direction of Staff Sgt. William R. Stuart, will include the Prelude "Chant" by White, and Macbeth's "Forget Me Not" for the offertory.

A cordial welcome is extended the public of Shanghai of all nationalities to both the church service and concert which follows.

A BOMBER apiece was presented on February 10 to the Army and the Navy by the Federation of Dai Nippon Youths' Associations. Recently, the organization also presented a fighting plane each to the Army and the Navy.

ANTI-JAPANESE LEADER CAUGHT IN NANKING

Going through Nanking with a fine comb, Japanese gendarmes on February 5 arrested Chi Ho-ting, described yesterday by local Nipponese newspapers in belated reports as a leader of the anti-Japanese movement in the abandoned capital. The 29-year old man was found hiding in a house on North Chungshan Road.

His examination by the gendarmerie, the press said, has revealed that Chi has been conducting his activities from the University of Nanking in close collaboration with one Yang Ching, 42.

Kweichow is now ruled by the former Minister of Industries, Ms. Wu Ting-chang, whose appointment to the Chairmanship of the Kweichow Provincial Government some time ago was taken as the decision of the Central authorities to turn this province into a base for the economic reconstruction of South-west China.

Changchun Law Mobilizes New State for War

Japanese and Soviet Troops Mass on Borders

SPARK MAY SET OFF FULL BLAST OF CONFLICT

Changchun, Feb. 10.

A mobilization bill to control all material and human resources on a war basis was passed by the Manchoukuo State Council to-day. The bill in many respects resembles the measure now before the Japanese diet.—United Press.

Soviet Border Tension

Tokyo, Feb. 10.

Nearly a million Japanese and Russian soldiers are massed along the border between the Soviet Union and Manchoukuo. They are prepared for war, reports the United Press staff correspondent after a tour of inquiry.

Throughout the late summer, the autumn and early winter, Japan has been keeping up a steady movement of troops and supplies to northern Manchoukuo. The movement is still on.

In the late November the port of Dairen was being used as a concentration area from which troops could be sent to the north or to China. At that time the daily average was four troop or supply trains northward.

Japanese officials say it is necessary for Japan to prepare for defence against possible independent action by Marshal Vassilli Bluecher and his Far Eastern Red Army.

Foreigners who have watched the situation develop from occasional border incidents to large-scale war preparations, say there is a definite feeling among some leaders of the Kwantung Army, representatvies of Japan's military might in Manchoukuo, favouring a "show-down" against the Soviet while Japan is mobilized for war against the Chinese.

Gen. Ishihara's Vital Mission

The name of Lt.-Gen. Kanji Ishihara has not figured in the news of the China situation thus far. But while the world was watching Shanghai and Nanking and the Japanese drive through North China, Gen. Ishihara went from Tokyo to Changchun on a mission of vital significance in Russo-Japanese relations.

The talk in Manchoukuo is that Lt.-Gen. Ishihara and Gen. Kenkichi Ueda, commander of the Kwantung Army and Japanese Ambassador to Manchoukuo, favour a "positive policy toward the Soviet. In the sometimes ambiguous Japanese phraseology, "positive policy" means a stern attitude with war as a definite possibility.

Lt.-Gen. Ishihara, with a brilliant record in Army circles, was among the "Big Three" of the military adventure by which Japan wrenched Manchuria away from China. The other two were Lt.-Gen. Kenji Doihara, famed for his work in China and Lt.-Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, who led the military campaign by which Japan took over control of Chinese territory bordering the Soviet part of Mongolia.

War Preparations

War atmosphere is recognized more quickly in Manchoukuo than in Japan. Changchun is alive with activity. It is said that commercial agents can sell most any sort of war supplies, the only condition being quick delivery.

German military equipment and supplies and Italian aeroplanes have been purchased. Also, plans have been announced for a Y.100,000,000 aircraft manufacturing company at Changchun under joint investment of Japan, Germany and Manchoukuo.

A thousand American trucks were purchased in September. Manchoukuo figures in all these deals, but Japanese are the ones who make them.

The equipment that has been flowing north is for a Japanese army of some 350,000 men who will be kept through the winter in the frozen north. Fodder for horses—cavalry is effective in Manchoukuo campaigning—has been gathered in huge quantities.

Revolts and Desertions

The revolts in August of native troops have been confirmed. It has been established that desertions from the Japanese Army have been frequent enough to cause concern.

The population, despite Japan's "pay-as-you-go" policy, has not been entirely won to the Japanese cause. It has been estimated that there are at least 75,000 anti-government armed men in northern Manchoukuo, a constant irritation to Japanese troops.

The size of the Soviet's Far Eastern Army is estimated at 400,000, plus reservists, in addition to the air force and naval strength at Vladivostok.

It is reported by Japanese that Marshal Bluecher has been maintaining an arrogant attitude toward the Central Government. They say that in recent weeks Moscow sent two commisars to treat with Marshal Bluecher and that he sent them both packing. The Japanese believe that even if the Kremlin desires peace, Marshal Bluecher may take things into his own hands and start "independent action" against the Japanese.

Ironical Possibilities

That creates an ironical situation because "independent action" by Japanese field officers in the past started the empire on some of its most spectacular military efforts—at Mukden in 1931, at Shanghai 1932 and again in China this year. And in the present case "independent action" may come from the Japanese as well as from the other side of the border.

Marshal Bluecher is reported to have moved his headquarters from Habarovsk to China to be closer to the territory where friction may develop, where Japanese armed forces are taking over territory fringing upon Soviet Outer Mongolia.

The United Press correspondent was told on good authority in Changchun that the Kwantung Army felt the Tientsin garrison showed weakness in its handling of the North China incidents which led to general Chinese-Japanese hostilities this year. If that is true it indicates that the Kwantung group would not hesitate in a Russo-Japanese clash but would strike back with all its force.—United Press.

INDIAN DURBAR IS POSTPONED

King George Expresses Keen Regret at Necessity

WORLD SITUATION TOO UNCERTAIN

London, Feb. 10.

King George will not visit India this year, an official communique states to-day.

It is a matter of deep regret to the King that he has once more felt obliged to postpone his visit but His Majesty feels that, after careful examination of the matter in all its aspects, both financial and general, he would not be justified in imposing any additional burden on the existing revenues of India at a time when the calls on them, in connection with the inauguration of provincial autonomy, are already heavy.

Moreover, the communique continues, His Majesty would deplore the loss and inconvenience resulting from any change in plans that might prove necessary at a later date.

With these considerations in mind, His Majesty has reluctantly come to the conclusion that it would be advisable to wait until the general world outlook has become more settled and financial prospects more definite, before committing himself to an engagement so long in advance.

Visit Much Desired

In communicating his decision to the Marquess of Zetland, Secretary of State for India and Burma, His Majesty once more repeated his strong desire to visit India and his intention of doing so as soon as circumstances permitted, the communique concludes.

In February, last year, the King informed the Secretary for India that he had reluctantly come to the conclusion that he would not be able to hold a Coronation durbar in India during the following winter, but that he looked forward to the visit at a later date.

At that time His Majesty was hoping that he might find the opportunity he desired during the winter of 1938.—Reuter.

ROYAL STATE VISIT TO FRANCE

Princesses Not to Accompany King and Queen

London, Feb. 10.

Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret, it is understood, will not accompany the King and Queen when they pay their State visit to France at the end of June.

Their Majesties will make the journey via Dover by train and boat, and there will be an escort of French destroyers to take them into Calais Harbour.—Wireless through Reuter.

ST. VALENTINE'S DAY DANCE AT "Y"

Annual Function Promises to be Great Success

The annual St. Valentine's Dance of the Foreign Y.M.C.A. will be held to-day at 8 p.m. Those who have attended this annual dance in previous years will know that it is one of the most enjoyable evening dances held by the "Y" during the year.

This will be the second St. Valentine's Dance sponsored by the Younger Members of the Association, as, previous to last year, this dance had been considered a feature promoted by the Women's Sports Section. This privilege was conceded the younger members at the last yearly function, and they acquitted themselves well by organizing an excellent evening of dancing and entertainment.

In promoting this function for to-night the younger members promise several surprises and new features. Some misunderstanding as to what constitutes the younger members has arisen in the minds of people, and there has been a tendency to think of this Committee as comprising junior members. Actually this is not so, and these dances cater primarily to an age group in the twenties, while members and friends of an older age need not fear of not having a good time and may be sure of a hearty welcome.

New orchestrations of popular pieces not as yet available in Shanghai, but which will shortly be song hits with the release of new cinema films, will be introduced to the Shanghai public to-night between 8 and 11 p.m. by Cliff Flook and his orchestra.

Smallpox Measures

An official notification published to-day announces that until further notice and in order to prevent the importation of smallpox into the Settlement, the Master of every ship arriving from Hongkong and landing passengers or members of the crew on the Bund Foreshore, is required to submit a Bill of Health to the Public Health Department of the Shanghai Municipal Council immediately on arrival; and if any case or suspected case of smallpox is found to occur during the voyage, the Public Health Department must be notified as soon as possible after discovery and no person will be allowed to land in the International Settlement without the authority of that Department.

JAPANESE FLIERS TELL EXPLOIT

Engine Restored as Craft Enters "Suicide Dive"

Tokyo, Feb. 11.

Crippled by five machine-gun bullets fired from the ground, a Japanese naval aeroplane crossed the South China Sea to its base late in January to complete a most unusual chapter in the annals of the service, the Navy Ministry revealed to-day.

The exploit was compared to that of a Japanese monoplane fighter that flew back from Nanchang to its base near Shanghai with two-thirds of one wing shot off.

The machine, donated by the Women's Section of the Hyogo branch of the Navy League on November 19 last year, is officially known as Patriotic Plane No. 152.

With Flight Warrant Officer, First Class, Yutaka Wada at the controls, and Flight Warrant Officer, Third Class, Shigeo Kata in the observer's cockpit, the machine took off with other machines on January 24 to bomb the Canton-Hankow Railway.

Troop Train Encountered

Spotting a Chinese military train, the machine swooped down directing a stream of machine-gun fire at the soldiers who filled the cars. Brisk fire was returned.

Circling over the speeding train several times, the plane continued strafing until its bullets riddled the locomotive's boiler which spurted steam. Bullets hit the plane's motor and the craft rapidly lost altitude. Rather than make a forced landing, the airmen decided to hurl their machine against the train. Therefore, they directed the craft towards the train. As the altimeter read "50," the engine suddenly resumed its familiar roar. Tugging fiercely at the controls, Flight Officer Tada managed to pull the machine out of its "suicide dive."

Through a fierce anti-aircraft barrage, the plane began a hard ascent as the crippled motor haltingly responded and finally at a safe altitude, No. 152 turned homeward and managed to reach the base without further mishap.—Domei.

LOOT RECOVERED BY POLICE

Arms and Ammunition Found In Raid: Two Arrested

Five hours after the robbery at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. W Wade, 150 Columbia Road, detectives of Bubbling Well Station, headed by Inspector A. J. Toon, recovered a part of the loot, seized three pistols and 62 rounds of ammunition, and arrested a 62-year old woman and a 14-year girl, through whom additional information as to the where abouts of the wanted men is expected to be obtained.

The seizure was made by the police at No. 3, Ching Hsing Lee, Changkaoloong, off Great Western Road, shortly after 7.30 p.m. on Thursday. The woman and girl who were found at the place are believed to be relatives of the robbers responsible for the crime at the foreign house. They are now being held under a writ of detention issued by the First Special District Court yesterday morning.

The crime was perpetrated at 2 p.m. on Thursday, when three men, one of whom was armed with a pistol, drove all the occupants including Mr. Wade into one room. Following a careful search for valuables, the gang left.

Among the articles recovered by the police in the raid carried out five hours after the crime were: two gold rings, one jade ring, one gold chain, a pair of gold cuff links, one jade pendant and seven silver dollars.

PEACE RUMOURS ARE REFUTED

Hankow Minister of Publicity on China's Friends

"SURRENDER WOULD NOT END AGGRESSIONS"

Hankow, Feb. 11.

All rumours of peace negotiations between China and Japan were indirectly refuted by Mr. Shao Li-tze, Minister of Publicity, in an address at a recepton given here yesterday afternoon by the "Chinese Anti-Aggression League."

"While China appreciates the friendly support given to her by her friends," Mr. Shao said, "she herself must live up to the expectations of her friends by continuing her resistance against Japan in a determined and vigorous manner.

"We know clearly who are our friends and who our enemies," he continued, "but we judge them by standards higher than mere self-interest. Those who support China in her fight against aggression and in her efforts to uphold peace, law and order are her friends."

General Chen Ming-shu, who was Commander-in-Chief of the 19th Route Army before they fought against the Japanese at Shanghai in 1932, also spoke.

He emphasized that to surrender to aggression would not only fail to end aggression, but would serve to encourage violation of peace and order.

The only effective way to end aggression, he asserted, would be for all peace-loving nations and peoples to combine in a concerted effort.

Another reception will be given this afternoon, but this time by the Chinese Peoples Foreign Relations Association, Mr. Wang Ching-wei, Chairman of the Central Political Council, will preside.—Reuter.

GREEK EX-PREMIER SENT INTO EXILE

Athens, Feb. 11.

The former Premier of Greece, M. Andrew Michalakopoulos, and M. John Theitokis, a prominent politician, were exiled to-day for seditious activities. They bring the total number deported in the last two weeks to twelve.—United Press.

AMERICANS TO MEET ADMIRAL YARNELL

Reception on February 22 at Columbia Club

A reception and dinner dance is to be held at the Columbia Country Club at 7.45 p.m. on February 22, at which the American community will pay their respects to Admiral H. E. Yarnell, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet.

The community are looking forward to the pleasure of meeting the Admiral in person, whom they already know well for the part he has played in the defence of American interests in the Far East, and to whom they have reason to feel deeply grateful. The party will be open to all members of the Community and their American friends.

As a large and representative gathering is expected to be present at the reception, it is understood that reservations should be sent in not later than noon on February 19 to the Secretary, American Chamber of Commerce, American Club, who is in charge of the reservations. The Fourth Marines' Orchestra will play during the reception.

THREE SENTENCED FOR SHOOTING

Over 100 Others Rounded Up by Police Found Innocent

Three of over 100 suspected terrorists rounded up by the Special Crime Branch of the Settlement Police Headquarters were sentenced by the First Special District Court yesterday on charges of attempted murder.

The trio were: Wei Han-ching, five years' imprisonment; Sun Ching-dong and Yang Ke-ming, three years and six months' imprisonment. One Hsih King-sun was ordered to be handed over to the French authorities, while nine others were acquitted.

According to the prosecution, the first three accused were involved in shooting at one Tou Nien-nung, head of a refugee camp at the corner of Sinza and Yu Ya Ching Road at about 6.25 p.m. on January 14, wounding the victim and also his private rickshaw coolie.

The first accused admitted the crime, saying that he had fired the shots as a warning. He had been hired for the work by another Chinese. The second and third accused said they merely accompanied the first accused to the scene.

The nine others were charged with having become members of a terrorist organization, but found not guilty. About 100 others arrested by the police had been set free earlier."

"Chuck" Haines Knocks Out Allessandri in Third Round

ITALIANS CREATE AN UGLY SITUATION AT BOUTS

Believe Their Fighter Fouled by Marine in Main Event of Canidrome Boxing Programme

"CHUCK" Haines became the lightweight champion of China at the Canidrome Gardens last night when he knocked out Gaspar Allessandri in the third of a scheduled ten-round bout. It was the main event to a fine programme of six events between a Russian team chiefly drawn from the Russian Regiment of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps and a mixed team including four American Marines.

The championship fight ended abruptly when the Italian boxer was knocked down by his opponent and could not get up, giving signs of having been hit a low blow. His seconds in the corner claimed a foul, but Referee Fallace counted Allessandri out. A large section of the crowd of boxing followers also clamoured for the referee to stop and decide the round on the alleged foul blow.

The referee, however, did not interrupt his count and signalled Haines the winner. The pain-stricken Allessandri's seconds then ran into the ring and tried to help their man get up. He apparently could not, for they finally carried him out. He received attention in his corner, but eventually was borne out of the ring. Italian soldiers then swarmed down from their places and tried to surround the ring, shouting at the referee and crying for a reversed decision.

Pregnant Scene

French police on the scene held the Italians at a distance. They were not allowed to follow their fighter to his dressing-room either, and after a while officers of the Savoy Grenadiers calmed their men. One Chinese policeman was believed hurt in a minor scramble. The Marines were kept separated from the soldiers, the French Police saving an ugly situation.

The bout that caused this furore began quietly enough as the two boxers came out for the first round of the main event climaxing a programme from which the proceeds are to benefit the Union Of Ex-Russian Army and Navy Men. Haines was steady on his feet as his opponent circled warily and occasionally dashed in for light blows to the body. The marine fighter depended chiefly on hooks with both fists in the infighting that featured the round.

The next was almost identical. Haines seemed to be too strong for the speedier Italian, and his telling punches in the clinches gave him a steadily-increasing lead. Allessandri landed a number of blows to the head, but none had great effect. What proved to be the final round began with a flurry in a corner. Haines gradually edged Allessandri along the ropes, and then the loser was on the floor. Referee Fallace counted him out.

Great Recovery

In the eight-round semi-final of the programme, Kolia Usefovich made a great recovery after a near knockout in the opening round to gain a technical knockout over Joe Clara at the end of the fifth. He cut the Filipino's left eyebrow with a wicked right hook in that round, and concentrated his attention on the wound until Clara was advised in the interval to give up.

A slow start at the beginning led to a surprising climax in the first round as Clara downed his opponent for a count of eight towards the end. Usefovich weathered the round, however, and came back in the second. Clara remained the aggressor, continuing to hook his slow way, boxing the Russian round the ring. Usefovich, however, used straight lefts to the face and right hooks to the body more in the third.

That round saw several flurries and even exchanges, with both men driving for knockouts. In the next round, the Russian boxer continued his recovery and things went badly with Clara. He missed with his heavier blows, and the reputed North China lightweight champion gained several points in the clinches.

Lojnikoff Beaten

Paul Lojnikoff showed very clever defensive powers, but he fell short on the offensive to lose on points to Petey Hayes in the six-round special event of the evening. Lojnikoff was ready to seize any opportunities, but the American boxer offered none. His heavier punching and aggressiveness won against the Russian's speed and skill.

In the second half of the bout, Hayes gradually asserted his superiority. He become more aggressive as his opponent smiled but failed to total points. Lojnikoff made the American miss badly in the fourth, but the latter landed two hard blows towards the end. And in the fifth round he continued to get home more punches, though the speedier Lojnikoff kept on smiling. Hayes also landed the greater number of punches in the last round, making it a repetition of the one preceding. There was little doubt of the decision despite Lojnikoff's undoubted promise as a boxer.

Marine Wins

The first of the six-rounders was a poor affair till the fourth round, which proved to be the last as Duke de Stefano completely closed Kostia Levchenko's left eye and forced him to forfeit the fight. In the first three rounds neither boxer landed any telling blows, though de Stefano appeared to have the better of the going because of his longer reach. It was in the fourth that the eventual winner opened up and after an edge in the exchanges landed the decisive punch on the Russian's eye.

Results at a Glance

Peter Lojnikoff, 149 lb., decisioned San Marco, 147 lb.

Private Korobkoff, 149 lb., won on a technical knockout in the second round from Tommy Moore, 149 lb.

Private Mardensky, 155 lb., boxed a draw with Billy Addis, 155 lb.

CANADA TOO STRONG FOR FRANCE

Winners Push to Semi-final of Whalley Shield

GREECE CONQUERED BY PORTUGAL

Very interesting badminton play was witnessed yesterday evening at the French Club where Canada (W.A.H. Duff and C.H. Duff) met France (Meise and Chaillan) in the second round of the Whalley International Shield. The outcome of the contest put Canada into the semi-finals.

'Nerves' were rather a feature of the play. In the first sett Canada were very unsettled whilst in the last France were definitely rattled.

The play of the first sett was concentrated upon C. Duff who must have been called upon to take 90 per cent. of the returns on his side of the net and it was not until the following sett that 'Stick' Duff took a more prominent part in the proceedings. The Duff Brothers certainly warmed-up at this stage and the play changed from pure hard hitting to first class badminton. 'Stick' Duff was conspicuous by his picking up of drives and his backhand play whilst his brother varied his game with effective drop-shots which helped a great deal in deciding the result of the match.

In the second sett, Canada had two good service runs. In one instance they changed the score from 4-all to a lead of 10-4 and followed with a four-point service, bringing their lead to 13-4.

Interesting Finish

The final sett was not of long duration but had an interesting finish. The scores stood at 10-0 with France in the lead when the service changed hands and Canada ran out with 9 points and did not give their opponents an opportunity of adding to their score.

Meise was not quite up to his usual standard, Chaillan played well in the first sett put tapered off towards the end. In the final stages, the French couple often found themselves very much out of position and left openings which were readily taken advantage of. The points of the three setts were 4-15, 15-7 and 15-10.

At the Country Club, Portugal (de Senna and da Silva) gained a fairly easy victory over Greece, the Chelmis brothers, winning in two straight setts with scores of 15-10 and 15-5. G. Chelmis had the misfortune to break the strings of two rackets and was thus playing at a disadvantage during the closing period of the game. Portugal will now meet Canada in the semi-finals.

What happened to the England v. Australia match appears to be a mystery even to the constituents of the sides. The only thing which seems to be quite certain is that the game failed to materialize. As the closing date for this particular round was yesterday it is probable that the result will go to Australia by default.

S'HAI LEAGUE SOCCER STANDINGS

Owing to the departure from Shanghai of the Royal Welch Fusiliers and the consequent inability to complete their fixtures, the Committee have ruled that all matches played by them to date be considered as cancelled and the League standings altered accordingly. Also owing to the Khalsa F. C.'s inability to continue fielding a team, their League records are now expunged and the League tables altered accordingly. In consequence of these changes the League standings are:—

"WAIT AND SEE" VIEW ON OLYMPICS

Chinese Boycott Attempt Not Greeted Warmly

London, Feb. 10.

A canvass of European reaction to the Chinese efforts to boycott the holding of the XIIth Olympic Games in Tokyo in 1940 to-day disclosed that Italy and Germany were definitely opposed to the Chinese aims. Other nations, however, have adopted a "wait and see" policy.

The consensus was to rely on the decisions to be reached at the International Olympic Committee meeting at Cairo next month.

The movement to boycott the games in Tokyo was started by the League of Nations Union in London on November 20, 1937. The Union demanded a world-wide boycott. Further action was taken by the China Athletic Association in Shanghai which appealed to the Union to renew its demands for action at the forthcoming meeting at Cairo. The China Athletic Association, while a Chinese athletic group said to be in good standing, does not control athletics in China.

A Bit Previous

A spokesman of the British Olympic Association in London said, "talk of boycott is a bit previous just now since we have not received an invitation for the Olympic Games."

He said that the Association would not decide on the acceptance of an invitation until after the Cairo meeting to be held next month from March 21 to 26 inclusive.

"As yet," he said, "there is no indication of any strong boycott movement in Britain."

Finland, which, with Italy, had made a strong bid for the XIIth Olympic Games after the conclusion of the previous Games held in Germany in 1936, showed a general sentiment to favour cancellation of Games in a country which was at war.

A United Press correspondent at Helsingfors reported that the Finnish committee had not yet discussed the matter.

Italy indicated that she would give full support to Japanese claims. A spokesman of the official athletic group expressed the belief that the Chinese were engaging in a political manœuvre "which had nothing to do with sport."

Berlin Favours Games

While no authoritative statement was given by the official German Olympic Committee, it was reported Berlin will oppose observance of the Chinese request. An official statement will be made after the conclusion of the Cairo meeting, it was indicated.

Austria, it was also reported, will not oppose the holding of the Games in Tokyo.

An official of the French Olympic Committee said that his body had not received the Chinese communication. He called attention to the fact that such a matter must be treated with the utmost caution since the "authority of the Federation making the request of this nature will have to be verified before the French Committee could act."—United Press.

GERMAN BOXER BEATS BELGIAN

Adolf Heuser Gets in One Telling Blow

Berlin, Feb. 11.

Adolf Heuser, German light heavyweight champion, beat Charles Sys of Belgium on points in a 12-round elimination bout at the Sport Palast in Berlin last night. Heuser thereby earned the right to meet Gustave Roth of Belgium.

The fight was one of the most dramatic bouts seen in Berlin for many months. Each boxer gave his best and at the end of the 11th round the spectators found it impossible to pick the winner. In the final round, the Belgian, who had shown a slight technical superiority throughout the fight, dropped his guard for a moment with the result that Heuser got in a beautiful straight to the chin which put his opponent down for a short count. In the final burst which led to a terrific exchange of blows and brought the whole house to its feet in a wild roar, the German boxer proved the better stayer and earned the decision by a narrow margin.—Reuter.

BENNY LYNCH GETS T.K.O. OVER FRENCH FOE

Glasgow, Feb. 9.

Hard-hitting Benny Lynch, Scottish world flyweight champion, battered out a technical knockout over Maurice Filhol of France to-night in the fifth round of the planned ten-frame battle.

The stocky Scottish slugger was never in any danger and forced the fight throughout, jolting his rival with two-fisted barrages. It was a non-title bout.—United Press.

AUSTRALIA NEARLY SWEEP THE BOARD AT WRESTLING

More Records Tumble at the British Empire Games as England Win Two Swimming Events

Sydney, Feb. 11.

SWIMMING and wrestling dominated the British Empire Games here to-day, which saw more records broken. While Australia nearly made a clean sweep of the wrestling events, England captured two of the three swimming finals.

A COLUMBIA PICTURE

In the feature event of the day, V. Buttsworth, of Queensland, proved to be the best shot by winning the Australian King's Prize with a total of 347 points. Leith and Gall, both of Australia, tied for second place with 345 points, but Gall lost in the shoot-off.

Swimming Events

The swimming events provided England with two victories. In the 1650 yards free style, Robert Leivers, former English half-mile and mile champion, won by 20 yards in the new Australian record time of 19 mins. 46.4 seconds.

Second was Pirie, of Canada, in 19 mins. 59.2 seconds, while 30 yards behind, third, was Wainwright (England), holder of the one-mile British record, whose time was 20 mins. 17.4 seconds.

The second English victory was in the women's medley relay for teams of three, England won by 10 yards from South Africa in 3 mins. 57.7 seconds, a new Australian record. South Africa's time was 4 mins. 7.5 seconds, while that of Australia, third, was 4 mins. 10 secs.

The third swimming final, the 110 yards backstroke, was won by Oliver, of Australia, in 1 min. 7.9 seconds, a new Australian record.

Kerr, of Canada, was second in 1 min. 9.2 seconds, while Taylor, of England, was third in 1 min. 9.3 seconds. Oliver won by two yards, while Kerr finished a foot in front of Taylor.

Wrestling to Australia

The wresting events resulted in six victories for the Australians, who missed making a clean sweep by the barest margin. They lost only the middleweight title to Canada.

Results were: Bantamweight.—Purcell (Australia); Featherweight.—Purchase (Australia); Lightweight.—Garrard (Australia); Welterweight.—Trevaskis (Australia); Middleweight.—Evans (Canada); Lightheavyweight.—Scarf (Australia); Heavyweight.—Knight (Australia).—Reuter.

NO STOPPING HENRY ARMSTRONG

Feather Champion Scores His 31st Knockout

San Francisco, Feb. 10.

Henry Armstrong, negro world featherweight champion, used Al Citrino, local lightweight, as a punching bag for three rounds before winning on a technical knockout in the fourth round.

The local scrapper was a mere chopping block for the lethal-fisted negro, but he revealed unusual fighting courage and earned almost as big a hand as the champion.

Citrino was felled thirteen times but refused to have the fatal count tolled over him. He kept coming up each time, more groggy, weaker and more bruised than on the previous occasion.

Crowd Wants Mercy

The crowd yelled to the referee to halt the fight, but Citrino was determined to continue and waved the official aside when he was asked whether he was able to continue.

"Homicidal Henry" again appeared as a lightweight, weighing 133. His foe weighed 131.

It was Armstrong's 31st knockout victory in the last 32 starts.—United Press.

PAPERHUNTS TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW

Bright Sunshine Working Wonders with Country

By "The Squire"

The hunt this afternoon will be layed by the Master, Mr. N. L. Sparke, and will start at 2.45 p.m. at Warren Line. The hunt is open to 'Y' class ponies only—those riding 'Z's must keep well behind the field so as not to interfere with riders who are competing. The finish will be announced after the hunt has started.

Bright sunshine yesterday worked wonders with the country and although the going is bound to be distinctly heavy on any low parts of the course, the highland should be perfect.

There is little chance of much novelty in the Home Country and "snoopers" in the country claim that they have seen no new jumps prepared, but I expect the Master will have one of his famous "rods in pickle" to try the best.

I hope there will be a heavyweight on the card and then there will be a more interesting field for the Challenge Cup.

There will be another hunt on Sunday afternoon. This will be a mixed hunt.

The story of two men who wish to see their husbands in the position of President of the United States is the plot of "First Lady," at the Cathay Theatre. Reference to the programme shows that it is the "hilarious film version of the famous stage hit." One of these two ladies, for the benefit of the uninitiated, gets her wish: the other does not—the reason why is the story of this picture. Miss Kay Francis, in this film, forsakes her heavy, tragic role of Silently Suffering Womanhood for a light comedy part and, as usual, is excellent; but her performance is definitely bettered by that of Miss Teasdale, another veteran (the word veteran is here used in the Hollywood sense, "having been before the public for more than four years without having to stage a 'Magnificent Comeback'"). Most of the film is built around these two women, who behave towards each other in the beautifully catty manner as only ladies, born and bred, are supposed to know how. The characters in "First Lady" are, on the whole, remarkably well cast; so much so that the romantic element provided by Miss Anita Louise and, of all people, Mr. Victor Jory, seems very much out of place. Considering the smallness of the part assigned to Mr. Jory, surely an actor of lesser calibre but more obvious youthful charms could have been found? While a slight knowledge of American politics will enhance enjoyment of "First Lady," it is not absolutely essential—there are plenty of other laughs.

Supporting "First Lady" are two shorts—a musical featuring somebody or other's orchestra and a "jam session," and a cartoon entitled "Porky's Poultry Plant." It is a fairly well balanced programme on the whole, and an enjoyable one.—E.G.A.

BRITAIN'S POLICE POWERS CURBED

Democratic Nature of Law Enforcement Shown

London, Feb. 10.

In answering a question in the House of Commons arising out of a recent successful action in the courts for damages against the police for wrongful arrest, the Home Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, described the elaborate code of instructions issued to the police force to ensure that, while powers of detention on suspicion required for the defence of the public are used vigilantly, the utmost care is taken to avoid the abuse of those powers, even at the risk of some guilty persons going free.

Sir Samuel gave the House assurance that adequate safeguards were, and would be provided, for preventing interference with the liberty of subjects.

The evening papers give prominence to the answer and comment on the strength of traditional liberties in Britain at a time when the methods of a police State are in the ascendant in so many other parts of the world.—Wireless through Reuter.

EASTERN DISTRICT HAS TWO BLAZES

Twenty-one Houses Razed by Flames

Two large fires occurred in the Eastern district of the International Settlement yesterday morning.

In Lane 459, Seward Road, thirteen houses were destroyed and a fourteenth was badly damaged. Hongkew Station firemen extinguished the flames.

The other fire razed eight one-storey Chinese country houses east of 6 Linching Road, Yangtszepoo. Firemen from Yangtszepoo Station attended this blaze and extinguished the flames.

No-one was injured in either fire.

BRITISH EMPLOYMENT DECLINE QUERIED

Mr. Chamberlain Explains Movement Is Seasonal

London, Feb. 10.

Questioned in the House of Commons to-day on the recent increase in unemployment, the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, said it was largely due to seasonal causes and was not of a nature to call for the initiation of measures other than those which the Government were already applying for the stimulation of employment.

Questioned on the preparation of plans in advance for measures to counter-act future recession of economic activity, Mr. Chamberlain said the matter had not been overlooked.

The Government were now considering what further steps they could take in conjunction particularly with local authorities. At the same time, he thought it right to say that too much reliance should not be placed on the possibility of doing more by such plans than contributing in some degree to reducing the fluctuation of trade and unemployment.—Wireless through Reuter.

CONNAUGHT ROAD HOUSE ROBBED BY SIX MEN

A gang of six Chinese speaking the Kompo (Chiangpei) dialect robbed House 3, Lane 501, Connaught Road, yesterday evening, taking a quantity of money and clothing with which they escaped. No shots were fired although four of the bandits carried pistols.

The French Police in a raid at Lane 410, Route Père Robert, arrested two men and a woman, robbery suspects, and seized a loaded Mauser pistol. No shots were fired in this instance either.

Old Guard Men Of German Army Growing Restive

Austrian Border Closed and Belgian Frontier Watched

RUMOURS TELL OF MUCH UNREST IN CITIES

Vienna, Feb. 10.

The border between Germany and Upper Austria was completely closed to-day, while on the Tyrol frontier normal traffic was stopped, although a few persons were permitted to pass under strict observation.

The Austro-German frontier had been virtually closed by the German authorities since yesterday afternoon.

Meanwhile, from Verviers, in Belgium, it was reported that the gendarmes on posts along the Belgian frontier had been doubled after reinforcement of German police on the German side of the border.

The object of strengthening the German police was understood to be to prevent the departure from Germany of any persons whose papers were not in order.

According to reports in Verviers, a certain amount of effervescence prevailed in some German cities.

Old Officers Restive

Nazi circles in Berlin, however, do not expect anything in the nature of revolt or unrest, although it is admitted that there is some restiveness among the old Army officers, especially in such districts as Pomerania or East Prussia, where they have been brought up in the tradition of the old Army.

The Nazis deny, however, that any trouble is likely to break out. Nevertheless, it is gathered that there will be some weeding out of officers who are not sympathetic to the new regime. It is pointed out that the Army has been built up very hurriedly and many officers have been brought back who are steeped in the old traditions.

Definite facts ascertained in London to-night from a welter of rumours of tension in Germany, were the following:

1. Strict control had been established on the Belgian-German and Austrian-German frontiers.
2. In Berlin it was announced that many further changes in the lower ranks of the Army were expected, following the change in the Army Command.
3. Everything was normal in Berlin, Munich, Cologne, and Frankfurt, according to reports received from Reuter correspondents there.

Earlier to-day the report that the former German Crown Prince had "fled" from Germany, was only one of a number of remarkable rumours regarding events in Germany, all of which were either denied outright or not confirmed.

Berlin Officials Chagrined

There was much astonishment and annoyance in official quarters in Berlin because of rumours circulated abroad of street disorders there.

When Reuter's correspondent made a tour of the working-class quarters in Berlin he found that all was quiet and normal.

The report that the Belgian-German frontier had been closed was promptly denied from Brussels.

Typical of the wild rumours which were circulated to-day, was a report from Warsaw that many German Army officers, belonging to old Prussian aristocratic families, had been arrested in the towns of Stolpe, Pomerania, and Allenstein, East Prussia.

The officers were arrested, the report declared, as a result of their discontent with the recent changes in the German Army Command. The report could not be confirmed from any good source and was believed to be exaggerated.—Reuter.

Strong Berlin Denial

Berlin, Feb. 11.

All British and French newspapers entering Germany to-day were seized at the frontier, presumably owing to the reports contained in them of the internal situation in Germany.

Everything is quiet in Berlin. The bulk of the public is ignorant of the reports of undercurrents in Germany, which are intriguing other nations. The German press is silent on the subject.

Herr Berndt, Dr. Joseph Goebbels' deputy, heatedly refuted the rumours respecting Germany in a statement to foreign journalists assembled at the Propaganda Ministry to-day. He emphasized that the recent changes were entirely non-political, and that all retired officers were still at their posts, where they would remain until the end of the month.

He maintained that no further changes would be made other than those published, and that none was contemplated.

Herr Berndt denied all reports that the frontiers were closed and that there was trouble between the Army and the Government. No officers, he asserted, had fled. The ex-Crown Prince would be back in Germany within a fortnight.

Finally, Herr Berndt characterised reports appearing to the contrary in the foreign press as "grotesque and malicious."

Thirteen Polish and one Czech newspapers were confiscated by the police at Danzig this morning owing to reports in them concerning Germany.—Reuter.

REFUGEE COMMITTEE WEEKLY MEETING

Shanghai Danger If Refugees Are Turned Loose on Street

With Father Jacquinot presiding, the Refugee Committee of the Shanghai International Red Cross held its weekly meeting on evening of February 9. The whole question of the Committee's commitments and liabilities was thoroughly overhauled. As previously stated, it is not the Committee's policy to establish or maintain any refugee camps which have already been established and supported by Benevolent Societies who have exhausted their supplies and, but for the assistance of the Committee, would be forced to disperse the camps under their care.

The Committee emphasized the fact that the whole refugee problem of Shanghai must be treated as a single unit. The danger to the safety of the internal peace of both the Settlement and Concession would be as great if half the camp refugee population of Shanghai had to be turned loose on the streets as if the whole lot were suddenly disbanded. It is a question whether the public realize the potential danger through riot and civil commotion from which they have been saved by the gathering of these large refugee population into organized camps.

During January the Committee was responsible for supplying food, and a large amount of clothing, to 126,000 refugees in 150 camps in the Settlement and Concession. As one of the Societies, responsible for some forty of these camps, now finds itself with some funds in hand, the Committee's liability for February will be reduced by some $30,000. When the treasury of the Society concerned is depleted the Committee will again take over the burden.

Another problem which is becoming increasingly acute is that of the large number of refugees who have found shelter in homes in Shanghai but who have now exhausted their means of support and are facing destitution. The advantage of keeping such people out of the refugee camps is apparent and ways and means for their relief are accordingly being devised by the Committee.

As nearly as can be ascertained the following is a census return of the refugee population of Shanghai at the end of January 1938:—

In Settlement and Concession, 153 camps population	128,400
Street and alleyway population estimated	30,000
Chiaotung University Camp	12,000
Zikawei Camp	10,000
Jacquinot Zone, Nantao: estimated according to rations issued	70,000
Total	250,400

VICE-ADMIRAL SIR PERCY NOBLE

New Commander-in-Chief China Fleet Takes Over

Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble took over as new Commander-in-Chief of the China Fleet on Feb. 5 states the "South China Morning Post."

The official transfer took place at 8 a.m. the flag of the new C.-in-C. being broken out in H.M.S. Cumberland, while that of Vice-Admiral L. G. E. Crabbe, who departed for Home by the ss. Chitral at noon, was broken out in H.M.S. Capetown and hauled down in H.M.S. Falmouth; being re-hoisted in H.M.S. Falmouth on completion of the gun salute.

At 8.05 a.m., H.M.S. Capetown saluted the Flag of Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble with 15 guns, H.M.S. Cumberland replying. Sir Percy came on deck in H.M.S. Cumberland at 9.30 a.m. and was received with a guard and band.

Vice-Admiral Crabbe left at 10 a.m. by car for Queen's Pier, where he inspected the military guard of honour.

Later in the morning, the Governor of Hongkong, Major-General A. W. Bartholomew and Commodore E. B. C. Dicken called on Admiral Noble, who subsequently paid a call on the Governor and returned those of the G.O.C. and the Commodore. The Governor returned the call at 12.45 p.m.

Military guards of honour for the occasion were drawn from the Royal Scots, the Middlesex Regiment and the Kumaon Rifles.

The Royal Scots provided the guard at Queen's Pier for the departure of Vice-Admiral Crabbe. A second guard, provided by the Middlesex Regiment, attended the landing of Vice-Admiral Noble at Queen's Pier at 11.15 a.m.

At Government House, a guard of honour drawn from the Kumaon Rifles was present; while at 11.45 a.m. at Flagstaff House, a guard was drawn from the Royal Scots.

Japanese Empire Day is Enhanced By Mass Amnesty

Citizenship Rights Restored to 300,000 People

LEADERS OF TOKYO ARMY REVOLT INCLUDED

Tokyo, Feb. 11.

Three hundred thousand Japanese, including 150,000 political offenders, have been reinstated to full citizenship by an Imperial Amnesty issued to-day on the occasion Empire Day which marks the 2,598th anniversary of the Accession of Emperor Jimmu, Japan's first Ruler, and the 50th anniversary of the promulgation of the Constitution.

Death sentences have been commuted to life sentences, while life sentences have been commuted to imprisonment or penal servitude for twenty years. Those already serving time have had their terms commuted to half the original sentences.

The former Capt. Ittaro Yamaguchi and six other leaders of the revolt in Tokyo on February 26, 1936, have had their life sentences commuted to twenty years' imprisonment, while the former Naval Sub-Lieutenant Kiyoshi Koga and three other naval officers, who were involved in the assassination of the then Premier, Baron Inukai, and other crimes in the terrorist demonstration on May 15, 1932, have had the remainder of their sentences commuted by one quarter.

An Army order announces the cancellation, from to-day, of "an Army order of punishment issued in connection with offences committed previous to February 11 in favour of those who have already been punished or who are still under punishment, or whose punishment has been exempted, postponed, suspended or otherwise not executed."

This order, it is believed, includes soldiers punished for infractions of discipline in China.

Japan's Rise to Power

In celebration of to-day's double event, the Japanese newspapers draw particular attention to Japan's meteoric rise to the position of a first-class Power. Among other things, they point out that Japan's greatness is evidenced by contrast of the Budget of 1868, which totalled Y.30,500,000, with that of 1938, which totals Y.7,860,000,000—made up of the ordinary Budget of Y.2,860,000,000 and the "China Incident" Budget of Y.5,000,000,000.

Editorials in the Japanese newspapers emphasize that the nation must make fresh efforts for the enhancement of national prestige and to bring about stabilization of the situation in East Asia.

To-day's celebrations in Tokyo were conducted ashore, afloat and aloft. Over 200,000 citizens, mostly students and members of the Young Men's and Young Women's associations, paraded through the streets and converged at the plaza in front of the Imperial Palace. Forty civilian aeroplanes visited Tokyo to take part in the celebrations, while all the ships in Tokyo Bay and the Sumida River were in full dress.

At 10 o'clock this morning, all Japanese citizens in Tokyo stopped their work and, facing the Imperial Palace, paid a minute's silent tribute to the Emperor.—Reuter.

JAPANESE OCCUPIED AREAS CLOSED

No Permits Issued to Return to Yangtze Delta Cities

STRAGGLERS' PRESENCE GIVEN AS REASON

Japanese occupied areas on the Yangtze Delta are still closed to former foreign residents, including missionaries, Japanese spokesmen announced last night. With the exception of medical missionaries connected with hospitals in Wuhu and Huchow, no permits to return to the various inland cities were being granted, they said.

"The presence of Chinese stragglers and the absence of adequate communications make the return of foreigners to such areas impractical, to say the least," a military spokesman said.

"Whatever advantage may be gained from the return of such persons would be nullified should any trouble arise," he added. Asked to explain what he meant by trouble, the spokesman said it concerned the possibilities of kidnapping or the harming of such foreigners by Chinese stragglers.

Regarding the suggestion that missionaries could waive the responsibility of the Japanese authorities for their safety by presenting documents to that effect, an Embassy spokesman said that such waivers would be legally useless.

"The American, British or any other Government would not consider its duty to protect its nationals to have been ended by the filing of such a waiver by individuals with the Japanese authorities," he said.

The counter-signing of such a waiver by foreign officials so as to give it legal validity was termed "inconceivable" by the spokesman.

When you talk about GOOD WHISKY what do you mean?

—asks Johnnie Walker

The first thing to remember about good whisky is that it should be fully matured. Every one of the whiskies used in blending Johnnie Walker has developed its fine natural character through long years of maturing in the wood.

Expert blending ensures smoothness and roundness in whisky. The blenders of Johnnie Walker take special care to keep a perfect proportion between the many whiskies at their disposal. So one may say that Johnnie Walker is blended from good whiskies to make a better whisky.

Always ask for Johnnie Walker by name.

MARRIAGE AND THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND

Conspiracy of Silence: New Marriage Act: Civil Control Before Ceremony

BY THE BISHOP OF NORWICH

The Marriage Act which came into operation on January 1 has raised some questions which are outside its special scope. One of these questions was illuminated some months ago by a communication of the Registrar-General, who has recalled the interesting fact that when the Marriage Bill of 1836 was before Parliament, a proposal that all marriage preliminaries shoud be under civil control met with weighty support. This did not mean that civil marriage itself should be made obligatory, only that the initial steps, necessary to make sure that those who wish to be married are truly competent to marry, should be taken under civil and not ecclesiastical authority.

Many now consider that it would be wise that all marriages should be carried out by civil agency: the law might adopt or adapt some continental method, or develop a practice already in use in England which combines the civil and the religious procedure. As the law now stands, those who have been married at a register office may have a subsequent religious ceremony in a church if the clergyman consents to read the marriage service over them. This service in church has no legal value, nor is any entry made in the marriage books of the church. Advocates of universal civil marriage would propose some extension of this scheme.

Responsibility of Church

The question primarily concerns the National Church, which has obligations to the whole nation. With its parochial system it covers the whole country, and the parishioners as such have rights in the parish church. No doubt the duties of the Church were modified as soon as it was made possible for marriage to take place at a register office; and without hardship the Church of England can direct to this office at any rate those persons who would be so obviously unsuitable applicants for marriage in church that there could be no two opinions on their case, such as non-Christian foreigners. But the Church of England still has a general responsibility for all.

Under the present law, however, other religious bodies besides the Church of England are able, if certain conditions are fulfilled, to effect valid marriages according to their own rites. They are not dissatisfied with the existing situation, and any scheme of universal civil marriage, even if it were acceptable to the Church of England, would necessarily deprive such bodies of a valued right.

The call for a new system of civil marriage for all would appear for the most part to have come from members, few or many, of the Church of England. The strength of the demand arose from the desire, strongly held in some quarters, that divorced people should not be married in church. But it is noticeable that the Legislature has been increasingly considerate to the clergy; and the new Marriage Act in its Clause 12 relieves them from any obligation to celebrate the marriage of divorced persons. So far, then, the case for civil marriage will have lost support.

The "Excepting Clause"

Many of the clergy will heartily welcome this Clause 12, especially those who reject the much-canvassed "excepting clause" as given by St. Matthew. It may be said in passing that here is no question of textual criticism (giving us a more accurate version of the words of the writer), but of the higher criticism (which deals with authorship, authenticity, acceptance, etc.). The excepting clause has the same authority of canonical Scripture as the baptismal formula which finds its biblical authority in the first Gospel. It is doubtful whether a body of higher critics, however eminent, will at this time of day change the general view that the excepting clause has Scriptural authority. The clause is clearly of critical importance. The Archbishop of Canterbury in the House of Lords explained that if we could accept St. Matthew's version, adultery could scarcely be held to give the sole ground for divorce, and certainly we must observe that the sanctity and the indissolubility of marriage are by no means interchangeable terms.

Marriage Preliminaries

When, however, we turn to civil preliminaries, the case is different. Publicity and caution represent the two aims of marriage preliminaries. The point is to identify the parties about to be married and to make sure that they can lawfully marry. When England was populated by villages, all who were neighbours in a locality knew one another and the banns system succeeded very well. But our huge urban populations have put a new complexion on the matter.

The clergy cannot possibly know anything about all those who come to "put up their banns." They have little opportunity to detect frauds and irregularities. Perhaps it is worse still with the ordinary marriage licences of the Church of England, which, it must be allowed, would involve special difficulties in any scheme of reform. Only one of the contracting parties makes the necessary declaration, and when this party states that there is no impediment to the marriage, he or she may be stating quite sincerely something that is untrue, having been deceived by the other party. It is simple for a man to commit bigamy in this way. The civil authority has already more suitable machinery at its command for examining dubious cases; and there are several points in which the civil system itself could, without much difficulty, be strengthened.

The clergyman who registers a marriage is really acting as an officer of the Registrar-General, and he would be put at no disadvantage if, in regard to marriage preliminaries, he found himself occupying a similar position. If the banns system of the Church of England is considered very precious, there is no reason why it should not be maintained in an adjustment of civil preliminaries, provided that it was extended to the Nonconformist bodies if they desired it; for civil preliminaries must necessarily be uniform and even-handed all round.

If ever such a scheme came into operation it would be wrong to hope for too much from it. So far as the Church of England is concerned, it is the admission to the Holy Communion which presents a more worrying question than the right to choose which marriages should be solemnized in church. As things stand, admissibility to the Holy Communion is not a matter of purely ecclesiastical administration, for the Book of Common Prayer is part of an Act of Parliament, and under its rubric concerning admission to the Holy Communion it is the "open and notorious evil liver" that is to be repelled. Who is he?

So far as the answer of the law of the land diverges from the answer of the Church, it will need a considering and considerate statesmanship to handle the issue. But it would be regrettable if Church and State came into conflict over these marriage questions, so long as both desire to act in a Christian manner. (See the speech delivered last year by the Bishop of Birmingham in the House of Lords when the Bill was under discussion.)

Preparation for Marriage

It would not be within the scope of this article to pass from the formal marriage preliminaries which it has discussed to another kind of marriage preliminaries, namely, to the subject of preparation for marriage. Plainly, legal marriage preliminaries, which, after all, cover a very short period in this matter of caution, cannot save people from themselves. We try to improve the marriage laws; but the weakness of the whole thing lies in the way in which people will run into marriage without preparing themselves long before for the totally new united life which marriage brings with it, and without choosing their partners more deliberately.

Unhappy marriages in most cases derive from the fact that they were contracted without a sense of responsibility, and were from the beginning so ill-advised as to carry within them the seeds of subsequent misery. But though neither the Church nor the State can force people to be wise, much more might be done in the way of educating the young on the whole subject. Children are too often kept in the dark—the subject is avoided. Growing lads and girls do not find the guidance they need; nor do they first hear of marriage and birth, etc., through reverent and sympathetic instruction. There are brides and bridegrooms who never read over the lovely marriage service of the Church of England—for, excluding the preface, it is singularly beautiful—before they come for their own wedding.

Every clergyman and father and mother, every schoolmaster and schoolmistress, ought to be doing tenderly all that lies within their reach to replace this stupid and fatal conspiracy of silence by early teaching on the meaning of marriage and on the hopes and demands of happy married life.

MAN, WOMAN DEAD IN MOTORCAR

Found in Locked Car by a Roadman

A roadman discovered a man and a woman dead in a locked car at Hampden Woods, near High Wycombe, Bucks, recently. It was believed that the man's name was Goodwin and that he was formerly a member of the Leicester City Police Force. The woman was identified as Mrs. Maisie Morris (33), of Leamington Spa, whose husband lives in London, states the "Manchester Guardian."

Mrs. Goodwin, whose home is at West Bridgford, Nottinghamshire, left on night of January 10 for High Wycombe. She had intended to visit a Nottingham cinema, and an emergency message for her was flashed on the screen. Friends stated, however, that having read a report of the tragedy in a newspaper she had already left.

Dick Hughes, the roadman who found the car, said that the doors were locked, the engine was running, and rubber tubing was attached to the exhaust pipe.

When the police arrived they had to smash the windows of the car to get out the bodies, which were taken to a local inn. Snow was falling at the time, and it had already covered the ground to a depth of about two inches.

A curious feature is that the car, which had a Leicester registration number and was formerly registered in the name of Goodwin, had recently been registered in the name of Leo Heath, of Queen Street, Portsea, Hants, but Mr. Heath told a reporter that he had never owned a car and could not drive one. Mr. Heath added that he used to live in Leicester, where he knew a man named Goodwin, formerly a police constable.

EDIBLE BIRDS NESTS IN THE PHILIPPINES

The edible nests of swiftlets, valued as a delicacy and as food for convalescents by the people of China, are built in limestone caves along the seashore in many parts of the Philippines. The export of the nests is in the hands of local Chinese merchants, and although accurate statistics are difficult to obtain it has been stated that the Netherlands Indies in one year exported 109,310 kilograms of nests valued at 822,913 guilders. In only one of the Philippine Islands, Bacuit, has an attempt been made to derive municipal revenue from the trade, when the traditional ownership of the birds nest caves, which had existed for generations, was supplanted by municipal ownership and the annual leasing of the caves to the highest bidder, says "Nature." As a reply, to this move, the Chinese dealers formed a ring so that the bidding, which reached 1,700 pesos in 1927, had fallen in 1936 to 500 pesos, and in a footnote to a recent paper on the subject, Canuto G. Manuel states that as no bid at all was offered in 1937, the caves have relapsed to the system of traditional ownership. From Bacuit, approximately 500 kilograms or about 100,000 nests are exported annually, but poaching of nests is common, and attempts to limit the collecting with the view of conserving the stock have met with little success. Nest collecting, however, is a dangerous occupation, and the fact that some inaccessible caves are tenanted by the birds, provides for the survival of the swiftlet.

AMAZING ESCAPADES OF TWO GIRLS

Lured Men to Flat, Then Held Up and Robbed

INCIDENTS REVEALED IN JUVENILE COURT

Two girls, aged sixteen and fourteen, picked up men and lured them to a flat in the West End of London, where they were held up and robbed at the point of a gun, states the "Daily Mirror."

This amazing story was revealed by an alleged statement—made by the elder girl—which was read in Southwark Juvenile Court recently by Police-Inspector Frank Beavis.

There is no doubt about the truth of the girl's story, Inspector Beavis told the magistrates.

The girls were brought before the Court as being in need of care and protection. Both had been in a remand home for three weeks.

Their faces were swollen with crying.

They were allowed to sit as the statement was read, and both were sobbing.

The elder girl had been employed as a waitress, said Inspector Beavis.

According to her statement, the girls met two young men, known to them as Bryan and John, and went for a walk with them.

They Planned A Raid

They told us they did shopbreaking—holding up shops for what they could get, the girl's statement continued.

They asked us if they could rely on us doing a job on Thursday, December 9, and we both said we would. They did not tell us where or what the job was, but we were to go there in a motor-car. Instead of going, I went to work.

Meantime we had agreed to go and live with them, and eventually go to Scotland.

On December 12 we went to Lambeth Baths, where we changed our clothing so that people would not know us.

Bryan and John met us and took us to a cafe down in the Cut in Southwark.

While in the cafe they spoke about and planned what they called a smash-and-grab raid.

The two men took them to a flat off Tottenham Court-road, where they stayed the night.

Both Brayan and John then suggested that we should walk round the streets, pick up with a fellow and take him to the flat," the statement went on.

At about 10.45 that night we picked up a man who was ginger-haired at the corner of the road where the flat was.

The ginger-haired man offered us 10s. We agreed to this and took him to the flat.

Bryan and John were both waiting there, and Bryan pulled out a gun and pointed it at the man and told him to hand over his money. John searched him and took off him 10s. and a few coppers and then turned him out of the flat, telling him to keep his mouth shut.

On Sunday night we got hold of two different men and took them to the flat.

Brayn held them up with the revolver again and took three shillings off one and six shillings off the other."

In Hyde Park

The following Wednesday night, with Bryan and John, the girls went to Hyde Park and were stopped by nine or ten other men, from whom they asked money.

In each case we took the fellows down a side path and Bryan and John would follow us down there, point the revolver at the man, and demand his money and search him.

We got about £2 out of the nine or ten men.

After a quarrel with the men the girls left the flat the next morning and booked beds at a lodging house in Lower Marsh, London. S.E.

When a police inspector told the younger girl he was going to take her to her parents, she replied: There is no need. I do not want to see either of them. I am not going back home.

The elder girl said the two men had seen her taken away by the police and had since disappeared.

The younger girl was sent to an approved school at Watford, and the elder, whose mother said she was easily led, was placed under the supervision of a woman probation officer.

FIGHT IN ROOM OF FILM STAR

Journalist and Manager Come to Blows

Chairs were smashed, tables overturned, and mirrors broken in the dressing-room of Gitta Alpar, Hungarian gold-blonde opera singer and film star of "Mme. Dubarry" fame, during a catch-as-catch-can fight between Emmerich Biro, her manager, and Albert Lange, a German emigrant journalist, on night of Jan. 15, wires the "Sunday Express" Vienna correspondent.

Emmerich Biro was busy explaining to Gitta Alpar their accounts of the past week.

Lange kept on interrupting with ironical remarks.

When the manager tried to push the journalist out of the dressing-room they came to blows.

Gitta Alpar, in her dressing gown, rushed out and yelled for help. Stage hands separated the fighters.

Emmerich Biro had his left eye cut open, and was treated by the stage doctor.

Gitta Alpar, a non-Aryan, divorced two years ago from the Aryan German film star Gustav Froehlich, is now playing the leading part in "Antoinette," a light opera staged at the Budapest theatre.

LAWRENCE OF ARABIA'S SECRET FOR BRITAIN

Working on Plans of World's Fastest Boat when He died

Britain is to have the world's fastest torpedo boat—from "hush-hush" plans left by T. E. Lawrence, Mystery Man of the East. Its hull design revolutionary, first all-metal speedboat ever, it is now being built behind locked doors in London. It will be the most advanced boat of its kind in existence.

First trials are planned for March—four years after Lawrence's death—and Admiralty and War Office experts will be present. Sensational results are expected.

Bradford-born Edward Spurr, modest, 30-year-old engineer, told the "Daily Sketch" recently in his Westminster flat of this boat which he and Lawrence designed.

They were close friends, and since Lawrence died—his hobby was engineering—this fair-haired young Yorkshireman has been carrying on alone.

'T. E.' and I met at Southampton when he was there as Shaw of the R.A.F.," said Mr. Spurr. "I was chief experimental engineer for a firm of high-speed boat manufacturers and we struck up a great friendship.

Both motor-bike fans, we turned to talking of highspeed boats and we spent hours together planning and designing. When 'T. E.' was killed I carried on—this is the result.

One of the boats—a racing craft—is to challenge Sir Malcolm Campbell's record; the other, the torpedo boat, carries 150-200 men and can be manœuvred with the ease of a racing car.

Secret in the Design

We shall finish the racing boat first, said Mr. Spurr. I shall pilot it.

Our secret is the design—not the engine. A high-powered supercharged aero-engine will be fitted, but the extra speed and easy manipulation will be through the design.

There's not another like it in the world—torpedo boats are of wood now. Mine will be in all-metal, light aircraft-type material.

Money? Yes, it has been expensive," he agreed. It has cost me £7,000 so far—but I'll get it back. Maybe I'll be a millionaire.

22 YEARS WITHOUT SLEEP

War-Disabled Hungarian Has Not Slept Since 1915

M. Paul Kern, a retired clerk, aged 54, who lives with his wife and three children at Rákoshegy, a Budapest suburb, has not enjoyed a second of sleep since June, 1915, when his head was injured by the splinter of a grenade on a Galician battlefield. Lately he had an offer from an American collector of rarities for the possession of his skull after his death, but rejected it, for he is a religious man and holds that body and soul belong to their Maker, states "The Times."

M. Kern states that he takes eight meals during his 24-hour day. When he feels worn out and needs a rest, he closes his eyes for a couple of hours and tries to think of nothing, a feat he has never succeeded in accomplishing. He has read and still reads an enormous amount of literature in four languages, two of which he has mastered since his injury provided him with such a great amount of leisure. Yet his main resource, out of which he was always able to draw strength and comfort, is the Bible, whole books of which he already knows by heart. He often recites passages from the Psalms while lying awake on his bed.

M. Kern never drinks anything but water, but he is a very heavy smoker. He has quite a collection of pipes, long and short, and uses one for each hour of the day.

As to sleep, he has completely forgotten what it is like. He compares himself to one who has lost his eyesight in early childhood, and can no more realize the pleasure to be derived from it.

BERLIN BOURSE

Berlin, Feb. 10.

The share market opened to-day very firm and business was brisk in those leading shares that have been the centre of interest for several days past. The powerful upward price movement is attributed to the expectation that selling on foreign and emigrant account would now be much less than heretofore. Among those shares that were most in demand to-day were the very ones offered in great quantity in the last few days, for instance Harpeners and Rheinstahls. Profit taking was also in evidence, otherwise prices would have risen still more.

Dye Trusts stood ¾ higher at 162¾. Minings were firm, lignites weaker, potashes buoyant, chemicals firmer, electricals better.

On the fixed interest securities market the trend was decidedly friendly. In certain cases the turnover was greater. Reichs Old Liquidation Loan rose ⅝ to 131¼. Young Loan stood ⅛ lower at 108. All communal bonds rose ⅛ to ¼ per cent. reaching a general level of 99¾. In industrial bonds Dye Trusts stood unchanged at 130¼.

Callmoney stood at 2½ to 2¾ per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, Feb. 10.

Settlement considerations, together with general reluctance to enter fresh commitments, resulted in quiet conditions, with prices often drooping owing to a lack of support. British gilt-edged securities, however, were firmly held; Far Eastern loans hardened on a better inquiry while international issues rallied partially towards the close.—Reuter.

PARIS BOURSE

Paris, Feb. 10.

Little activity was witnessed on the Paris Bourse to-day.

The sharp decrease in the gold reserves of the Banque de France did not surprise traders as it was announced two days ago by M. Paul Marchandeau, the Finance Minister.

Various rumours concerning Germany formed the main subject of discussions on the Market, notably the purge in the army.

Rentes lost fractions, while the remainder of French issues were irregular.—Havas.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Feb. 10.

Stock prices on Wall Street to-day were steady, with quotations finishing from fractions to about 1 point up. Rails took the lead in the slow climb in anticipation of freight rate increases being conceded by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the near future. Trading, on the whole, was quiet, with the turnover amounting to only 630,000 shares.

NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION FORMED

Washington, Feb. 10.

A "National Mortgage Association" has been formed by the United States in accordance with President Roosevelt's request, Mr. Jesse Jones, Chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced here to-day.

The association, with a capital stock of US$10,000,000, will provide funds for immediate investment in first mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration, Mr. Jones revealed. The association was reported to have been authorized to issue debentures up to twenty times its capital.

Mr. Jones disclosed that R.F.C. funds had been used to establish the association. He expected the new undertaking would give impetus to home and apartment construction.—United Press.

U.S. COMMODITIES

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, Feb. 10.

Easy conditions prevailed in the cotton market, with prices sagging on lower foreign advices, southern hedge-selling and liquidation. Bearish reports regarding the Farm Bill were a discouraging factor. At the close, quotations ranged from 8 to 12 points down from the previous final levels.

Easier Eastern advices induced a lower opening for rubber prices, but the market later steadied-up on good commission house inquiry and factory demand. At the last call-over, gains from 9 to 12 points were registered.

Chicago wheat prices declined on weak foreign markets, a poor export inquiry and expectations of moisture in drought ridden spots. At the final bell, losses of ⅞ of a cent were recorded.

BANQUE DE FRANCE WEEKLY BALANCE SHEET

Paris, Feb. 10.

The latest weekly balance-sheet released by the Banque de France reveals a sharp drop in the gold reserve.

This decline, which amounted to Frs. 3,127,000,000, was announced two days ago by M. Paul Marchandeau, Finance Minister.

The amount was transferred to the Exchange Equalization Fund, which last November had at its disposal a great surplus of gold.

Part of this surplus was taken over by the Banque de France.

Later, however, the metal reserves of the Stabilization Fund decreased considerably, notably owing to the payment of the British railway loan and the support of the Franc in January.

This is the reason for the Stabilization Fund repurchasing from the Bank the metal which it had sold three months ago.

Following this repurchase the gold reserve of the Bank declined to Frs. 55,086,000,000.

The balance sheet also showed that advances by the Bank on securities declined by Frs. 151,000,000 while short term loans increased by about Frs. 254,000,000.

On the liability side, depositors' current accounts dropped by Frs. 4,300,000,000.

Notes in circulation gained by Frs. 1,132,000,000.

Total liabilities at sight dropped by Frs. 3,175,000,000, but the drop in the gold reserve resulted in a decrease in the gold coverage ration, which declined from 49.66 per cent. to 48.32 per cent.—Havas.

PLAN TO RETIRE EXCHANGE MEMBERSHIPS

New York, Feb. 10.

In line with the recent suggestion of Mr. William O. Douglas, member of the United States Securities and Exchange Commission, Mr. Charles R. Gay, President of the New York Stock Exchange, to-day appointed a committee to study the feasibility of gradually retiring a number of Exchange memberships.

Exchange memberships now total 1,375. The number has not been changed for nine years.—United Press.

BROKERS' LOANS BY MEMBER BANKS

New York, Feb. 10.

Loans on security to brokers in New York by the reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System, for the week ended February 9, totalled $572,000,000, showing a decline of $435,000,000 from the corresponding period of last year.

Loans to brokers during the previous week amounted to $611,000,000, or $39,000,000 higher than the amount recorded during the period under review.—Reuter.

LONDON SILVER MARKET

London, Feb. 10.

Messrs. Mocatta and Goldsmid, in their weekly bullion letter, write:

Price movements in the silver market during the past week have again not been important, but the undertone remained steady, with the spot premium tending to increase.

Indian and Continental selling offset bear covering.

Much of a fall from present levels is not looked for.

Stocks of silver in London at the end of the week totalled 4,000,000 ounces.—Reuter.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM RETURNS

New York, Feb. 10.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, in their report for the week ended February 10, respecting the entire body of reporting member banks of the system, revealed no change on bills bought compared with last week, but a decrease of $2,000,000 compared with the corresponding period last year.

United States Securities held showed no change from the previous week, but an increase of $134,000,000 compared with the same week in 1937, while the Federal Reserve Ratio was unchanged from last week, but dropped 0.1 per cent. from the corresponding period last year.

Credit outstanding to the Federal Reserve, as compared with last week and the same week in 1937, showed no change and an increase of $117,000,000, respectively. Monetary gold stocks were higher by $1,000,000 and $1,369,000,000, respectively from last week and the same period last year.

Industrial advances by the Federal Reserve declined by $163,000,000 from the previous week and by $5,957,000,000 from the corresponding week a year ago.

During the period under review bills bought totalled $1,000,000; U.S. Securities held $2,564,000,000, while the Federal Reserve ratio was placed at 80.2 per cent.

Credit outstanding to the Federal Reserve amounted to $2,594,000,000; monetary gold stocks $12,756,000,000 and industrial advances $17,625,000,000.—Reuter.

BANK OF FRANCE RETURNS

Paris, Feb. 10.

Gold reserves totalling 55,806,000,000 francs were shown in the returns issued to-day by the Bank of France for the week ended February 2, representing a decrease of 3,127,000,000 francs from the previous week.

The total note circulation was given as 93,387,000,000 francs, showing an increase of 1,132,000,000 francs, as compared with the previous week.—Reuter.

MACAO HARBOUR IN DANGER

Lisbon Paper on Action by Chinese Authorities

Lisbon, Feb. 9.

The Chinese Government's intention to silt up Macao harbour was mentioned in the newspaper "Seculo" to-day.

The journal added that China may fill up the canals in the vicinity of several islands near Macao, thereby prejudicing Portuguese interests.

These islands for several years have been the subject of discussions between China and Portugal, and the Portuguese assert that their agreement is necessary for the move allegedly contemplated by China.

It is understood that the Macao authorities had informed the Central Government in China of the inconvenience which would be caused by the Chinese plan and that the latter had submitted the whole question to examination by technicians.

The Sino-Japanese hostilities broke out before the Chinese Government had made its decision, however, and the matter was postponed.—Havas.

IRISH TRADE EXPERTS SAIL FOR DUBLIN

London, Feb. 10.

The Irish experts who, since the recent conversations between the governments of the United Kingdom and Eire, have been examinating technical matters with Board of Trade and Ministry of Agriculture officials in London, left last night for Dublin with draft proposals for a trade agreement for submission to their government. An early resumption of ministerial conversations is hoped for.—Wireless through Reuter.
